VIRGINIA AND NEVADA.

Henry A. Wise in Favor of the Philadelphia Nominations—Nevada for Grant.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Representative PLATT, of Virginia, brings information that Ex-Gov. HENRY A. WISE will support the Philadelphia nominations, and he is mentioned by Republicans of that State for a place on the ticket of electors to vote for President GRANT.

Trustworthy information from Nevada, the home of Parson TITSON, "the Reformer," indicates that GRANT will have its electoral vote by at least 5,000 majority.

OHIO.

Republican Congressional Nomination in the Twentieth District.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 30.—The Republicans of the Twentieth District, yesterday, nominated RICHARD C. PARSONS, of Cleveland, for Congress.

GREELEY'S TRADE.

Secret Conferences and Correspondence Between Greeley, Seymour, Waldo Hutchins and Others—Negotiations Looking to Greeley's Nomination Began Six Months Before the Cincinnati Convention.

From the Binghamton Republican, June 29.

We have come in possession of some facts which account in part, if not wholly, for the remarkable and hitherto inexplicable action of the Democratic leaders in endeavoring to force HORACE GREELEY upon their party as its candidate for the Presidency. In October of last year, months before the "Liberal" Republican Convention of Missouri began the Cincinnati movement, Mr. GREELEY was in conference with a Democrat in this State, whom we know, on the subject of the Presidency; that Democrat was hunting for a compromise or dissatisfied Republican candidate whom the leaders of his party would indorse; and Mr. GREELEY agreed to accept, if nominated. Mr. GREELEY wrote a letter to the Democrat, in reply to one; and these led to the conference, at Mr. Greeley's invitation; at which meeting Mr. Greeley consented to become the candidate if the nomination were tendered him. We have seen Mr. GREELEY's letter, to which we have referred, in his own well-known handwriting.

So Cincinnati Convention of so-called Republicans was hardly then thought of, but we have proof, that we deem positive, that the fact that Democratic collusion with some of the delegates of that Convention, particularly from this State, led directly to Mr. GREELEY's nomination. A prominent Democrat of Central New-York wrote to a prominent man, hitherto a Republican, one of Mr. GREELEY's chief friends and advisers, in New-York City, only a few days before the Cincinnati Convention met, on the subject of the proposed candidacy. That Democrat was in favor of GREELEY's nomination; and believed that the Democratic Party of the country could be brought to his support in certain contingencies. Two days later the writer was a reply which pleased and gratified him; it crowned the negotiation; and the result, an understanding of what the Democrats were prepared to undertake, was, as we have said, made known to the prominent men in the New-York delegation at Cincinnati. The name of the leading Democrat we know to be HORATIO SEYMOUR; and of the Republican friend of HORACE GREELEY WALDO HUTCHINS. That the negotiation was carried on, we have seen the sufficient and undeniable proof. We have been shown a letter from one of the well-known writers of the last-named correspondence, HORACE GREELEY, WALDO HUTCHINS and HORATIO SEYMOUR are the "high contracting parties" to the greatest scandal of American politics. We state the fact of the correspondence on our proper responsibility; and if any one of the persons we have named denies, we will give dates and details, and produce testimony, that they will not be in position to dispute. The statements not contained in the two letters, one of Mr. GREELEY, which, by the way, set aside CHASE for Democratic use as "broken down"—and the other, signed by one of the three mentioned, are given upon perfectly good authority. There is no longer any reason to doubt that there has been a perfect understanding between the Democrats and GREELEY for at least eight months past. Republicans who have regarded Mr. GREELEY as a Republican, and who have given any confidence to Cincinnati, will be astounded to learn that he was in effect sold to the Democrats before Cincinnati; that he was their candidate when Grant was made a candidate before the regular Democratic convention if there had been no Cincinnati, and that they are the victims of a bargain carried out by trickery, which will—it grows more and more likely—be consummated at Baltimore.

The Catholics Before the Bait.

Mr. GREELEY's private organ has been trying all it knows to cajole the Irish Catholics into voting for the Theatrical Woodchopper. It appears from an article in the Freeman's Journal of this week that the House Farmer cannot drop salt on the tails of the Catholics so easily as he supposed. The following is an extract:

We have seen New-York crazy several times. But, truthfully, New-York is not crazy just now. Were we to characterize the condition of Democrats in New-York, it would be by the application of a term of unmeasurable imbecility with greatness of the intellect! We would charge it with political idiocy!

Why, they writhe, they contort themselves, and proclaim how nauseous GREELEY is to them—and yet they support, many of them, that they must vote for him! They say, deplorably, that they know he is full of weaknesses, and that all his weaknesses lean and fall over to the vitiosum side; and yet they think they may have to vote for him! Some of them may vote for him. Nor do we believe that the opportunity for self-degradation has presented to the people of the State of New-York, they may not yet by a majority, vote for GREELEY. But the mad idea that will lead them to do so has not yet occurred.

A distinguished New-England Democrat is reported to have said in strong language: "I am trying to take GREELEY. I have swallowed him three times, and kept my mouth shut—but I may have, in course, to swallow me!" That New-Englander will probably succeed in keeping GREELEY, without "swallowing." At the South, some talk of taking him "en an emetic!" Opinion, taken in June, are of a very queer character if held till November.

Taken all for all, this is one of the most deplorable "break-downs" that the political history of the world, so far as truthfully written, has ever seen. If Catholic theology did not teach us that a "republic," depending on free electors, was a legitimate form of government, we could, so long as the electors were all to pieces, lament, (see St. Thomas, passim) we would think that God Almighty was making fun of Americans for thinking they could do without a King!

Positions of Our Republican State Candidates.

The Albany correspondent of the Troy Times writes as follows, under date of June 28:

"The Tribune has claimed that some of the Republican Senators are in the Greeley book. This is a mistake or misrepresentation. On the contrary, the most positive feeling for the Republican candidate nominated at Philadelphia prevails among the Republican Senators, and they have no idea of abandoning the Republican organization. It is believed, after a full and frank interchange of opinions, that only one Senator is even on the fence. He is Hon. NORMAN M. ALLEN, of Cattaraugus. Even he is not a pronounced Fenton Greeley man, although he represents Mr. FENTON's own district. So earnest is the feeling that the Republicans decline to confirm a Republican nominee for the Commission to revise the Constitution until it is made clear to the Senate that he is not a supporter of the Greeley-Tammany coalition. The Senate does not intend to augment the power of that mischievous copartnership. HORACE GREELEY has been counting chickens that won't hatch.

TIME'S CHANGES.

George W. Julian Today and Yesterday.

A little while ago GEORGE W. JULIAN boastingly wrote to a "Liberal" Republican meeting in Richmond, Ind., in the following effect:

"If no higher considerations had appealed to me than my own selfish ambition, it can scarcely be necessary to say that I would now be found at work for Gen. GRANT's re-election as zealously as I shall oppose it; for the fact is perfectly well known that the prizes of politics were within my reach if I had sought them this Fall through the regular machinery of the Republican organization and the support of the party in power."

A little while previous to that, however, the Richmond Telegram says, he wrote from Washington to a personal friend a letter, which shows that his public boast has slight foundation. He said:

"I am a little sorry the County Convention was not tested by a resolution in favor of my nomination for Congressman at Large. * * I suppose you will be at the State Convention, and therefore I write this. I am not a candidate for Congressman at Large, and have said and done nothing with a view to it; but if the Convention should tender me the nomination, I would be proud of the compliment, as a recognition of my long and faithful public services. If the feeling of the Convention, under the lead of MORTON & Co., should be decidedly hostile, then I would like to avoid the issue, but would not go into any scramble for the place. * * I write to you, because enemies of mine may be at the Convention inclinating the impression that I have left the party; that I am sleepy out of politics; that I would not accept if nominated; that I will bolt our nomination," &c.

Judge Stallo on the Fifth-Avenue Conference.

[A reporter of the Cincinnati Commercial has had an interview with Judge STALLO. The following is a portion of the report:]

Judge STALLO—As to the Conference called by Mr. BOWLES, and the statements made by the Greeley men who took part in it, I may say, generally, that with one or two exceptions, the Greeley men admitted that Mr. GREELEY had neither the capacity to make a good President, nor was he a proper representative of reform principles; but they urged that in their opinion the Liberal Republicans had great strength with the Democrats; that he would undoubtedly be indorsed at Baltimore, and that, therefore, any attempt to substitute some other candidate would lead to the election of Gen. GRANT.

REPORTER—Was effect did the interchange of political sentiment appear to have during the progress of the meeting?

Judge STALLO—None whatever. With the opponents of GREELEY denounced his nomination as having been brought about by trickery and fraud, and as dangerous to the Republic, it was perfectly apparent from the beginning, the Conference would lead to nothing. No one, so far as I am aware, was converted from the views he held at the time he entered the room.

REPORTER—What was the main positions taken by the two parties?

Judge STALLO—It was agreed, among other things in the Conference, by the opponents of GREELEY, that the call issued by the Liberal Republicans of Missouri had been based on a clear statement of definite propositions, one of which related to revenue reform; that efforts had been made to induce them to widen their call in two directions; that it had been resisted by those who wanted to give the movement a character of a political party, the call should be addressed to all citizens, without distinction of party, who sincerely concurred in these propositions; that it had been contended on the other hand by those who looked to the strength of numbers and to immediate success, the call ought to be made broad enough not to exclude the tariff men; GREELEY and his reformers; but the Missouri Liberal Republicans saw fit not to comply with either demand, and to adhere to the original terms of their call; that, accordingly, on the 1st of May, everybody who sought admittance to the hall of the Convention in Cincinnati was required to sign his name to the Missouri declaration of principles, and thus to pledge himself in writing that he concurred in them; that, nevertheless, on the second day after the Convention had been organized, the same Democrats who had been active in the Conference were hopelessly divided on the tariff question, and were thus constrained to relegate that to the Congressional Districts. In other words, they declared that the majority controlling the Convention had stolen into their hall by an open breach of honor and faith, and that it was natural, therefore, they should follow out this ill-noble beginning with the equally ignoble end of nominating HORACE GREELEY, whose political faith might be briefly summed up as a direct negative of two-thirds of the Missouri declaration of principles.

REPORTER—What was the character of the oratorical displays?

Judge STALLO—The proceedings of the Cincinnati Convention and its nominee were denounced as absurd and iniquitous. The two best speeches delivered were by PARKE GODWIN, of the New-York Post, and by EDWARD ATKINSON, of Boston.

REPORTER—Was it not a strange resolution to exclude the Press?

Judge STALLO—The impression given abroad that the Press was excluded on the motion of the opponents of GREELEY, is erroneous. The proposition was made by—well, I will not name the party. I do not believe, however, that a reporter from any of the respectable journals would have been excluded.

REPORTER—After what has transpired, Judge, what is your opinion of political reforms?

Judge STALLO—In my judgment the work of reform in this country, to be successful, must have a reasonably honest beginning. I do not believe it will come of fraud and duplicity.

Another "Reformer" on the War-Path.

The other day a noisy man went stalking up and down the parlors of the Astor House, protesting that this Government must be reformed—"this thing had gone on long enough—we must have a change—liberties in danger—Cæsar at Long Branch"—&c., &c., &c.

The gentleman to whom he was talking said quietly: "I don't know who you are, Sir; but I will engage to say that you are either an office-holder who has been turned out, or an office-seeker who has been disappointed."

The patriot went into a paroxysm of indignation, and said that he and DANA were boys together, and were both equally pledged to purity of government—and so on. But a by-stander came up and said: "I know you; you are Mr. ——, the Postmaster, who was turned out not long ago, at Albany."

The "Reformer" instantly went in search of Mr. ROBERT B. ROOSEVELT.

An Open Bid.

"If I should be elected, I would treat all those who supported me alike, not asking whether they had been in the past Republicans or Democrats."—Horace Greeley, Letter, June 11, 1872.

—This is GREELEY's idea of Reform—to openly announce that he will make an open scramble of the public offices to all who support him: not one word, be it observed, about the fitness of the applicants for office. According to this rule, what posts will FENTON, MORTIMER, BEN. WOOD, and CHARLES ANDERSON DANA get?

How Greeley's Friends Take Him.

[From an account of the Fifth-avenue Conference, by the editor of the Volksfreund, of Cincinnati.]

"Of the thirty-two members—among them twenty-two pronounced Greeley men—who made speeches of any length, just a single solitary one declared himself satisfied with the nomination of GREELEY.

"The consciousness of degradation seemed to possess every one who had to confess there is only one of necessity or considerations of policy he was induced to support an adverse ticket. The frankness with which this confession was made, precisely by those who were there for the sake of establishing all opposition in GREELEY, was what characterized all the debates. Nobody felt satisfaction, and upon all, without distinction, weighed the certainty that it is not to the advantage of the Republic, if her people have to make a choice of their chief between two undesirable individuals."

To EMBERSON, who made the first speech, the newspaper correspondents have ascribed an editorial position. "Whoever did not personally know him, would not have believed, that the man who made such a dry, tedious, scattering speech was THUMBULL. It was easy to be perceived that the situation in which he is placed is by no means agreeable to him. The expressions, 'bitter medicine,' 'the smaller evil,' 'the sad but inevitable pressure of circumstances,' were repeated in the speeches of all those who spoke in favor of uniting upon GREELEY."

Of course it was known that SCHURZ was seeking an opportunity for taking a new position in the Greeley camp, and everybody was anxious to see him. He wheeled into it with extraordinary oratorical and tactical dexterity, and yet he could not prevent the halo which has surrounded his name from falling from his head. His great moral weight, his independence, which raised him far above party thraldom and professional politics, he will never regain after hitching himself voluntarily into the Greeley cart with the men who betrayed himself and the principle of the movement at Cincinnati. He became faithless to his memorable words that "only to beat GRANT was not the object of the movement, and adopted the theory of the smaller evil. Should GREELEY, however, ever see the whole of his speech, he will not be much edified thereby."

ILLINOIS.

How the Springfield Ticket Was Made Up at Springfield—The Democrats.

From the Springfield (Ill.) Journal, June 28.

There is a general desire, not only among those who took part in the "double-header" Convention, but also among the outside adherents, to know how in the world it happened that the Conference Committee managed to agree upon such a ticket. They say that the like of it has never before been seen, in the politics of the State; and they are sure that a more unsatisfactory combination could not have been made, if the committee had tried for a week. We have heard an explanation of the matter. We are told that there was at first a general desire on the Liberal side to make GOV. PALMER the figure-head; but this the German element would not hear to. It was insisted, as he had made himself generally odious with the people, by his absurd quarrel with Gen. SHERIDAN just after the great fire at Chicago, and had made himself particularly odious with the Germans by his sham-championship of the State Temperance law, that it would never do in the world to make him the standard-bearer in the coming contest. It was then decided that Judge TRUMBULL must be the man, but at this juncture that gentleman interrupted the deliberations of the Conference Committee by announcing in person that it would be impossible for "obvious reasons" for him to accept the nomination. In other words, he did not care about waging a contest in which he could not receive the 100,000 majority in favor of the latter. And then, as a dernier resort, Gov. KOERNER was agreed upon, though eight or ten of the Committee persisted in voting against him. The "fixing up" of the rest of the ticket was not so difficult, as a notion readily prevailed to "sandwich" a Democrat between two Liberal candidates, in order to make not a little feeling manifested over the selections made by the Democrats. It was thought to be decidedly startling the forbearance of the "Liberals" to take up such old political trafficters as DANIEL O'FLAHERTY and CHARLEY LAMBORN for such important and responsible positions as State Auditor and State Treasurer, especially when the Liberals offered such available and so much better material for the same offices. Altogether the ticket is far from being satisfactory, and it is telling no secret to say that it is does not "go down," with that great portion of which was desirable, Gov. PALMER's friends—unless that, he, especially, has been badly treated, under the circumstances, and deserved something more from the Convention than a mere complimentary resolution.

Betrayal of the Liberal Cause.

From the Rochester Democrat, June 28.

There is no denying the issue. GREELEY's declaration that there shall be no Federal interference with the manner in which localities choose to protect citizens; BOOKWALTER's declaration that the Cincinnati nominee is opposed to any such support; and the Cincinnati platform, on the vital question, CASSIUS M. CLAY's appeal to the colored race that if they do not support GREELEY they will fall "into the hands of the Philistines," and the Chicago Tribune's declaration that Democratic Magistrates will not deal equitably by black men, are so many proofs that the nominee is supplemented by a declaration from the leading champion of Greeleyism in Western New York, that the question of the day is, to restore the South to the precise position it occupied prior to 1860. We quote from the Orleans American's report of the Albion meeting:

"Mr. DOUGLASS took occasion to state toward the close of his speech that if the Liberal ticket were nominated in the full faith and confidence that it would be adopted by the Democratic Convention, and that the Democratic Party would swallow it with all its Republican foliage. They know the ticket possessed great strength among the Southern Democrats, &c. He further declared that the only way to restore peace and quiet and confidence at the South was to restore the people of that section to the precise position they occupied previous to 1860."

"This declaration," as the American remarks, "tells every Republican precisely what is contemplated by the Democratic-Liberal Republican movement started at Cincinnati, the nuptials of which will be consummated at Baltimore on the 9th of July." This is the movement to which Liberal Republicans have been invited. Nor is it one which they will attend. Is it any wonder, that seeing this tendency to extreme Democracy, that Republicans who went into the movement under false impressions with regard to its new Abolitionizing 11 Signatures mandlessly obtained have no binding force; and papers signed before the conspiracy developed are of no consequence. There are no Greeley Republicans today.

Great Gush in Orange County.

The Onondaga Herald, in publishing the call for the organization of a Grant Club, says that "the noticeable feature of the list is that one of the number who signed the 'Greeley Manifesto,' twenty-seven are given below. A few other gentlemen whose names appear on the manifesto have not been seen, but we may safely conclude that all but ten will sign the regular call. Of those named, 27 sign only four have retreated. In the table below are the names of our most influential citizens."

Anti-Greeleyism in Indiana.

A recent special telegram from Indianapolis, Ind., reiterates the assertion that Mr. VOORHEES has repeatedly stated that he will not acquiesce in the nomination of GREELEY, no matter who the Baltimore Convention may nominate. The Terre Haute Daily Journal, the leading Democratic paper in Mr. VOORHEES' district, announces that it will under no circumstances support GREELEY for President. The Seymour Democrat, a leading Democratic paper in the Second District, also refuses to support GREELEY, and says there are twenty thousand Democrats in Indiana who will not vote for him.

Gen. Bidwell for Grant.

Democratic papers of the Pacific coast have of late industriously circulated the report that Gen. JOHN BIDWELL, of Chico, favored the election of GREELEY. Gen. BIDWELL has authorized the Marysville (Cal.) Appeal to state for him that he earnestly desires the re-election of GRANT and WILSON, and will do his influence in their behalf. COLFAX was his choice for Vice-President, but he regards WILSON as in every way competent, fitting and deserving.

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

The Springfield (Mass.) Union says that the Greeley party in this city has just been increased one-third, and now consists of Mr. BOWLES, District-Attorney STEARNS, Gov. TRASK and Col. JOHN R. RICE.

Many New-Jersey Democratic papers complain bitterly of Ex-Gov. RANDOLPH's management in that State, and they say that if the Convention had been polled there is little doubt that a majority would have been against GREELEY.

An Iowa paper has been examining the names of GRANT and GREELEY, and tells the results thus: "Both have the same handle, Gr. One has the suffix ant, which means industrious, constant, full of energy, and secretary; and the other has the suffix ey, which means wriggling, slippery and not twice in the same place."

The Natchez (Miss.) Courier asks more hard questions about GREELEY. For example: "If he can get little or no support from the Republican Party, and is met with opposition from Liberal Republicans who took part in the Cincinnati movement, and can get only a partial support from the Democratic Party, how can he be elected?"

Sixty-one Democrats in two small towns of Wayne County, Michigan, have signed a paper saying that they will never, under any circumstances vote for GREELEY. One of them says that they have moreover diligently inquired in the county for Republicans who have forsaken GRANT, and will vote for GREELEY, and they have found but one.

A Massachusetts clergyman, now traveling in the West, writes home to a friend: "The people, so far as I have seen, and I have journeyed thousands of miles since the Cincinnati Convention, are quite unanimous, that the Administration has been on the whole wise, judicious and successful, and that the present incumbent of Presidential honors should wear and shall wear these honors for another term."

The Richmond Enquirer pauses in the midst of a fierce attack on the Administration and the Republican Party to say: "We do not oppose Gen. GRANT as mere partisans. We have not assailed him on his war record. We remember with pleasure all his acts of kindness to the soldiers of the Confederacy, and are still grateful; and, perhaps, he has at times, been personal friends in the South as in the North."

ALABAMA.

Review of the Proceedings of the Democratic Convention.

Complete Identification of the Greeley Democracy with the Ku-Klux.

Proofs of the Existence of the Klan—The Chief of the Order in the State a Greeley Candidate for Congress.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Saturday, June 22, 1872.

The Democratic State Convention, which assembled here on the 19th, adjourned last night, after placing in the field for State officers a Simon-pure, unadulterated Democratic ticket. The proceedings of the Convention were not characterized by that harmony which usually follows and surrounds the councils of the great unwashed. The Liberal Republican element, composed of about one dozen persons in the entire State of Alabama, was most solemnly ignored. Indeed, the representatives of this element, consisting of only two delegates, were peremptorily refused seats in the Convention. Although led to believe by the Democratic Press of this State that hereafter there was to be no difference between so-called Democrats and Liberals, the latter were informed, when seeking admittance to the councils of the interwined, that the Democratic Party of Alabama neither needed nor wanted their assistance in the State canvass. But when the Presidential contest assumes definite shape, should these Liberals come in to help beat GRANT, they would shake hands with them across that bloody chasm so eloquently portrayed by the white-hat Philosopher in his letter of acceptance.

TRIUMPH OF THE "LOST CAUSE."

The proceedings of this Convention developed the fact that no man need seek preferment at the hands of the Democratic Party of Alabama who did not entertain original secession ideas or fight in the last ditch for the success of the "lost cause." Delegates presenting the names of persons for the various offices eloquently eulogized their heroic devotion to the cause of Southern rights and their valiant conduct upon the field of battle. Battle-scarred veterans were flaunted in the face of the Convention, and the ghosts of all the Confederate slain were invoked to hover around the commanders who sought nominations for the various State offices. Successful candidates, when delivering their acceptance addresses, assailed the Federal Government as the oppressor of the South; Gen. GRANT was denounced as the tyrant and usurper who had crushed the already prostrate people of the South, and was forging chains now for their complete overthrow and slavish subjection. With these men hatred of the Government, and especially of the President, is held to be the highest duty of their leaders and their supporters. The old Union men, men of moderate views and anti-war records, were held to be untrue and unfit for places upon this Democratic State ticket. Upon it, as it now stands, are two men who signed Alabama's ordinance of secession. The nominee for Governor, THOMAS H. HERNDON, of Mobile, is an extremist now, and was a signer of the ordinance of secession. He makes no concealment of his hatred for the President and the General Government. His address, when accepting the nomination, dwelt pointedly upon the fact that the success of the Greeley ticket, which he advocated, would result in restoring the Government to its original status. We of the South know well what is meant by restoring the Government to its original status. There is but one reasonable interpretation to this sentiment, and that is a restoration of secession and slavery; it means that all the Union-loving citizens of Alabama are to be persecuted as they were in 1860-61, and driven from the State. So much for the Democratic nominee for Governor. Gen. ALPHEUS BAKER, one of the nominees for Congressman at large, is one of the original signers of the ordinance of secession, was a Brigadier-General in the Confederate Army, and, although we believe him to be more moderate than his colleagues on the State ticket, we cannot shut our eyes to the fact, so plainly evidenced in the Convention, that he received his nomination because he did sign the ordinance of secession and was a Brigadier-General in the Confederate Army.

THE KUKLUX LEADER.

Gen. BAKER's associate candidate for Congressman at large, Col. J. J. JOLLY, is the grand magal of the infamous Kuklux Klan in Alabama. This fact secured for him the nomination for Congressman at large. He was indicted in 1871, by a Grand Jury of the United States District Court, at Mobile, for participating in the murderous outrages of the Kuklux in West Alabama, during the campaign of 1870 for State officers. The readers of the TIMES will remember that at a public speaking at Eutaw, in this State, in the Summer of 1870, a riot occurred which resulted in the slaughter of blood-thirsty murder—of members of colored race, who had assembled there to listen to speeches of Senator WARNER, Gov. SMITH and Ex-Gov. PATTON. The self-same JOLLY, now one of the leaders and shining lights of the Alabama Democracy, was the leader of the gang of Kuklux who assaulted those poor negroes and broke up their meeting. They did it without a shadow of provocation. JOLLY was arrested, gave bond, and was finally tried before Judge BUSTEED of the United States District Court, at Mobile. He was cleared. Why? Simply because there was members of the Kuklux upon the jury which tried the case. One solitary Kuklux upon a jury can prevent the conviction of his infamous associated.

PROOF AGAINST THE KUKLUX.

The people of the North have been loth to believe that there really existed in this section such an Order as the Kuklux Klan. Leading men of the South denied the fact; but it must be remembered these men were all Democrats. The Kuklux operated for the Democratic Party, and their leaders wanted to secure control of the State Government. All the Democratic newspapers of the South persistently denied the existence of this infamous secret band of outlaws. Before the Congressional Committee on Outrages the existence of this Klan was denied by every Democrat who was examined by that Committee. But recent developments in the United States District Court, here, Judge BUSTEED presiding, established the existence of this Kuklux Klan, and that it was organized to secure control of the Government for the Democrats. I shall not consider it a trespass upon the readers of the TIMES to give the testimony of certain prominent men who testified in the recent Kuklux trials here. The people of the North ought to know the whole story—disgusting and shameful as it is. Four men, BUTLER G. YOUNG, JOHN D. YOUNG, RINGGOLD YOUNG, and CORNELIUS, were indicted and tried for Kuklux. They were convicted and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in the Albany, New-York Penitentiary. I give portions of the testimony elicited on the trial. It is rather lengthy, but the readers of the TIMES should know it all. The following testimony was published in full in the Alabama State Journal:

TESTIMONY FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Dr. JACOB NELSON, (white,) sworn for the prosecution, and examined by Director-Attorney HUNTER: Reside in Coosa County, about fifteen miles from Rockford; know that there was an organization in Coosa County known as the Kuklux Klan; existed from 1867 to 1870 of my knowledge; was in existence about 1871; know of two Klans; the design of the Klans was to be a band of friends, for self-protection; to control the Governments of the Southern States; joined this Klan on my second initiation; belonged to two Klans myself; the officers of the organization were grand cyclops, magal and vice magal; there was also the grand cyclops I have forgotten; the oath of the Klan bound the members to protect each other, in the first place, and if any one of them was arrested, he was to be released, if possible; if he was not released, and was tried, a member of the Klan disguised any of its secrets he was to be killed; we had grips and signs; recognized one another by the grips; the sign of a sore throat was a cockscombe; "Rise Sir Knight" was the sign we heard this was in reviews; him who uttered it; I belong to the Weogufka Klan, Coosa County; have no knowledge of any other Klan; do not know Klans without the Constitutional number belong to the Klan.

Cross-examined: The organizers were not formal in its nature; I subscribed an oath in writing, but destroyed the copy; do not know where the original is; a copy was given me when I joined the Klan; burned the copy of the obligation I received in Clay County; I subscribed to the obligation in Clay County; the Weogufka Klan had no written constitution and by-laws; the obligation I took in Coosa County was not in writing; I belonged to the Klan which I meet; usually met in the woods or at some graveyard; do not know of any violation of the laws by any Klan, except at one time when an effort was made to arrest one of the Klan; I was expected to be a prophet in that county, but, on arriving within about two miles of BUREAN's house, the Klan returned without doing anything; am sure the Klan existed up to last Fall, up to the last election in Coosa County; the organization was in existence; have lived in Coosa County since January, 1867.

Redirect—We had masks and disguises in our Klan; I was first initiated in the spring or early part of 1867 or 1868; became attached to the Coosa Klan in 1870; have had no connection with the Klan since the last electing.

O. K. WILLIAMS, (white,) sworn for prosecution: Reside in Talladecca County, near Youngsville; know of the existence of the Kuklux Klan at Youngsville; I am a member of the Klan; never saw any one of the defendants in disguise, except RINGGOLD YOUNG; was with him myself when we went to OSS THOMAS' on one occasion; THOMAS lives about five miles from Youngsville; went there to whip a negro who had been accused of cutting down THOMAS' fence; did not find the negro; went from THOMAS' to old man CHRISTIANS', and whipped a negro boy there about eighteen years of age; this was about two miles from THOMAS'; understand from my Klan that the boy was whipped for seducing a white woman; whipped this boy's mother for saying that the boy was not at home; Mr. GRIFFIN YOUNG proposed to me, at one time, to be one of a party to rob E. M. BARNES out of the way; I refused to have anything to do with it; was not put out of the way; YOUNG knew I belonged to the Kuklux Klan; we had several captains; it was supposed Mr. GRIFFIN YOUNG was our cyclops; YOUNG told me that if I knew anything about these things I was not compelled to tell it; this was yesterday or the day before; he knew I was here; knew I was to be examined; I told him I was; he said he knew I knew I was a witness; I told him that I was a witness in this case; neither of the other defendants said anything to me about my testimony; our Klan had no certain place to meet; the last time I met with them was when we went to THOMAS', we met at a church near GRIFFIN YOUNG'S, heard JOHN YOUNG say that the burning of Pleasant Chapel was a bad thing, and that who did it did it very wrong; think one of YOUNG's sons was present.

Redirect examination—The Kuklux Klan was organized in defense of the Democratic Party and other things; don't remember all of the purposes; (Here the witness gave a series of signs and passwords of the Kuklux Klan.)

LUCIAN STURDIVANT, (white,) sworn for the prosecution; Cross-examined; HARKINS was along with us on the Ride in 1870, I think; he joined us in the Fall or Winter; never saw HARKINS initiated into the Kuklux Klan; I was initiated myself, and subscribed to an oath. [Here witness gave the oath, as follows:]

I solemnly and sacredly bind myself to my Order and the witnesses present, that you will never divulge any secret of this order you are about to become a member of, and that you will faithfully discharge your duties as member, to keep you in good standing, and you will protect the Democratic Party, and if any of the order shall be arrested and put in jail, you will release him by might or day, as the circumstances may require.

I took this oath; there was a penalty of death to all who should violate the oath; cannot remember the exact language stated in the penalty of death in the oath; I have stated the substance of the oath; don't know that the oath contained anything about a raid; WALKER's was December, 1870, or January, 1871; I was advised to testify here; Doc. BARNES advised me; I was in jail at the time he advised me to testify; I was bound in a bond of $1,000; I lived in Kuklux in Clay County in 1871; think he went there in January; HARKINS lives about twenty miles from Youngsville.

[Judge STURDIVANT, father of the above young man, is one of the most prominent Democratic leaders in the State.]

The result of the prosecutions against these murderous Kuklux outlaws was the conviction of seven of them and their sentence to the Albany Penitentiary. One of the indicted parties—ALLEN—confessed his guilt and made an exposure of the Kuklux Klan. It was, as he said, organized to keep negroes and Radicals from voting, and to help put the Democratic Party in power in the Southern States.

A BLIND.

These facts forced the Democratic State Convention here to adopt a resolution yesterday, feebly denouncing lawlessness, and asking the people to obey all laws until they were repealed. This is the first resolution of this character which has been adopted by any Democratic Convention in Alabama. What its effect may be we cannot yet foresee.

THE KLAN FOR GREELEY.

A recent case in Lowndes County, near this place, may serve to show the purposes of the Kuklux in the present campaign. A prominent Democrat openly denounced the Greeley dickes, and asserted that in no case would he support it. A few nights since, this gentleman was visited by a band of disguised men, and told that he must either support the Greeley ticket or leave the country.

REPUBLICAN PROSPECTS.

The Republicans are quietly perfecting their organization for the contest. The party has been sadly demoralized in Alabama since the defeat of 1870, but the prospects now look more bright than ever. Those who were induced to go into the Greeley movement, only about a dozen prominent men, have, with one or two exceptions, all come back to the field and renewed their allegiance to the true party. The Republicans of Alabama have suffered severely from outrage, but their calm, and uncomplaining course has won for them a better and kindlier feeling among the people. A meeting of the State Executive Committee has been called to meet on the 26th inst., and it is generally conceded that the State Convention will assemble in this city on or about the 26th of July. The State ticket will in all probability be headed by Judge D. P. LEWIS, of North Alabama, an original Union man, and one of the most influential high-toned sentlemen in the State. Judge LEWIS is well-known at Washington, and has unanimous endorsement of the Administration. It is confidently believed by leading Republicans that Alabama will give GRANT the majority he received in 1868—somewhere in the neighborhood of 6,000 votes. The Greeley fever does not extend beyond the Democratic Party. My sources of information are such that I can assure you that the one dozen known Republicans in Alabama have come out for GREELEY. By the November election, the Republican Party in Alabama will be thoroughly united, and present an unbroken front.

DISGRUNTLED DEMOCRACY.

I omitted to state, in referring to the proceedings of the Democratic State Convention, that a resolution indorsing GREELEY, introduced in the Convention the first day, met with such decided and determined opposition that it was referred to a committee. This committee reported favorably upon the resolution on the second day, and several prominent gentlemen declared it utterly and threatened that in the event of GREELEY's acceptance at Baltimore, a large portion of North Alabama Democracy would vote for Gen. GRANT. On the third day the resolution came up again, and threw the Convention into the wildest disorder, which came near breaking it up. The friends of the resolution implored its opponents to let it be adopted, and in order to carry their point, a bogus Greeley dispatch was read, purporting to come from JOHN FORSYTH, editor of the Mobile Register, who was at the time attending the Bryant Conference in New-York. At one Republican Convention had virtually dissolved, but by begging and importuning, trading and underhand selling, the resolution finally went through, so mutilated that its originator would not know it. It passed 105 votes of having unanimously adopted.

The result of this Convention has greatly strengthened the Republican Party in this State, and the readers of the TIMES—those interested in Republican success here—may rest assured that the Republicans will profit by the acts of their adversaries. The State is in the grasp of the Republicans, and if they fail, the fault will be theirs alone. MILLA.

The Maine Fifth District—Slight Opposition to Mr. Hale.

The Republican papers of Maine do not seem to think much of the efforts of a few disappointed men to make trouble among the Republicans of the Fifth District of their State, on the ground of dissatisfaction at the nomination of Hon. EUGENE HALE for re-election to Congress. The call published in the Bangor Commercial, a Democratic paper, for a bolters' Convention in Belfast, July 10, is signed by D. K. CHASE, N. A. JOY and CHARLES BAKER. The Augusta Journal says that there appears no reason to doubt that if the question of bolting were left to Waldo County alone—the aggrieved party—her true Republicans would crush it under foot, sustain the nomination of HALE, and wait for time to bring them justice, if they have not had it. The Bangor Whig says that after the Convention Ex-Congressman FRED. A. PIKE and others held a consultation with leading Democrats for the purpose of uniting the opposition to Mr. HALE on Mr. PIKE, but that Mr. BURT, of the Bangor Age, and others, would not have anything to do with any combination that looks like a fusion, and that being the case the Democrats have no use for Mr. PIKE, and so the contest ended in a fiasco. SAM L. MILLIKEN, Esq., one of the leading opponents to Mr. HALE, made an earnest speech in the Convention for the hearty support of the Nomination, and Mr. ENGWIRON, the Waldo County candidate for the nomination, has written a letter stating that he will support the ticket most cordially, and denouncing the bolt in the severest terms.

OREGON.

The State for Grant Sure—No Greeley Party Apparent—The Democratic Party Not Enthusiastic for the Cincinnati Nominees.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SALEM, Oregon, Monday, June 17, 1872.

It has been fashionable of late for compilers of political prospects to figure on Oregon as reliably Democratic, which supposition was hardly borne out by the results of the State election, held two weeks since. The returns show that the Republican candidate for Congress is elected by nearly a thousand majority, and also that the Legislature, to meet next Fall, will be Republican, which insures the election of a Republican Senator as successor to Hon. H. W. CORBETT, whose term expires next year.

So Oregon has given the first popular response to Cincinnati and a practical indorsement of GRANT, and can be counted on as for him in November in spite of any possible complications of parties. There is no Greeley party here unless the Democracy concludes to befriend him as a dernier ressort. Should there be a regular Democratic nomination there will scarcely be a ticket run for GREELEY and BROWN. There was no respectable or responsible movement to secure the representation of our State at Cincinnati, and the supposition is that the individual who cast six votes there for Oregon was subsidized by leading Democrats for that purpose, and they probably considered that affair as a matter in which they might have a continent interest.

Though our State was reliably for the Union party through the WAR, many of the voters who had been life-long Democrats gravitated back to the old name, and as a consequence, the Legislatures of 1868 and 1870 were Democratic, and the State election of 1870 inflicted a Democratic Board of State officers upon us, the greatest demagogue in the State at the head of it, in the person of L. F. GROVER, the present Governor. Then we had pure and unadulterated Democratic legislation such as Oregon never knew before, for there had been a freshness, purity and economy about Oregon legislation before that date, charming to look back upon, and, I am afraid, scarce to be expected again. Lucrative printing was all legislated to Democratic papers. Swamp lands, to the amount of millions of acres, were legislated into the hands of speculators. Portland had become a reliable Republican city, and its ponce was taken away from it and given to be manipulated by a Democratic Board. Fat things were prepared for party favorites, and legislation generally was made useful and profitable for party purposes, and since then the Governor has bent all his energies to make a snug berth for himself in the United States Senate. Of course these things have borne fruit and created an unfavorable public sentiment, and the late election was the harvesting of the crop. We did not expect much or men who ought to be outspoken, but are not. In the towns of Dryden and Groton (Tompkins County) there are a good many Republicans inclined to follow the lead of MILO GOODRICH, M. C., whose course seems as yet to be undecided.

DELAWARE COUNTY.

Outside of Delhi, Andes, and Roxbury there are not more than an average of five Greeley Republicans in each town. In Delhi the Greeley movement has more strength on account of dissatisfaction growing out of the conduct and result of the last town meeting, and there may be from thirty to forty Republicans in that town that will vote against us. GREELEY may get ten or fifteen Republicans in each of the towns of Andes and Roxbury. The loss of the Republican Party in this county since the Cincinnati movement is estimated at 150 votes if GREELEY is indorsed at Baltimore—if not indorsed he will not get fifty votes. There are many Democrats still swearing that they will not vote for GREELEY under any circumstances.

DUTCHESS COUNTY.

Our information, which is very full and accurate, shows that the county can be relied on to give a larger majority for GRANT than in 1868. Immediately after the Cincinnati Convention there was some little feeling for GREELEY, but his surrender to the Democrats, and the course of the Tribune, has extinguished it. In Poughkeepsie there are only three who have been known as active Republicans who are now for GREELEY. In that city many of the Democrats who have large business interests, announce that they will not vote for GREELEY, and some plainly say they will support GRANT.

ERIE COUNTY.

Our Buffalo correspondent writes that he has not been able to find three Republicans other than those who signed the call for a meeting to send delegates to Cincinnati, who have any sympathy with the Greeley movement. All the Republicans are outspoken for Gen. GRANT. A residence in Buffalo of over fifty years, and an intimate acquaintance with all classes of its citizens, enables him to form a fair opinion on the subject, and he has no hesitation in saying that, in no event could the Greeley ticket command 100 Republican votes in Erie County. Should GREELEY be adopted by the Democratic Convention, Gen. GRANT would get at least three Democratic votes for every Republican vote that would go for GREELEY.

ESSEX COUNTY.

Only one Greeley Republican is positively known to live in Essex County, but there are rumors that there is another one hidden away somewhere, and efforts are being made to discover him. On the other hand, there are many Democrats who declare they will never vote for GREELEY. Essex is safe for 1,000 majority for GRANT and WILSON.

FRANKLIN COUNTY.

The Republicans of this county are a unit for the ticket nominated at Philadelphia, and will give it an enthusiastic support. In spite of the coarse vituperation which the so-called Liberal Republicans and their Democratic allies have heaped upon President GRANT, he never stood stronger in the hearts of the people of Franklin than today. There are not over one hundred Greeley Republicans in this county, and many of them, our correspondent believes, will find themselves under the old banner before the 5th of November next. Several Democrats have recently declared that as between GRANT and GREELEY they shall vote for GRANT, and one of these was the Catholic priest of this place, who is a man of character and large influence. We can, therefore, depend upon the usual Republican majority in Franklin County next November.

FULTON COUNTY.

The same old story comes from Fulton. A few isolated instances of Republicans favoring GREELEY, and three times as many Democrats against him. The regular Republicans are hopeful and earnest in their support of GRANT and WILSON, and only wait for the Baltimore indorsement of GREELEY to begin the campaign in good old-fashioned style. As in the past, Fulton will do her duty as a Republican county.

GENESEE COUNTY.

No where is the Republican party more solid for GRANT; no where has the apostacy of Mr. GREELEY caused such intense disgust among the Republicans as here. Our well-informed correspondent writes: "We shall, if GREELEY is the Baltimore nominee, give a handsomely increased majority for GRANT over the vote of 1868. I have never seen more earnestness among the people. The Democracy or rather a part of them, are shouting for GREELEY, and we hear already in the Southern distance the old rebel yell, warningus to arm for the conflict. Our ranks will be solid and unbroken, and old Genesee will do her whole duty in the line of battle.

GREENE COUNTY.

GRANT and WILSON will poll the usual Republican vote, and an increase is confidently anticipated. Greeleyism does not amount to anything, and the Tammany candidate's chances will be weakened if indorsed at Baltimore, as he will lose ten Democratic votes for every one he gains. There is more enthusiasm for GRANT than there was in 1868. The mean and malignant attacks of GREELEY and SUMNER will have no other effect than to stimulate our party to increased activity.

HAMILTON COUNTY.

Entire reliance can be placed upon this county to do better than ever before for the Republican Presidential ticket. Our correspondent writes that after extended inquiry he has failed to find a single Greeley man except among the Democrats, and even these are exceedingly few and nauseated.

HERKIMER COUNTY.

Letters from all parts of this county state that Greeley men are hard to find, and only now and then one. The Sheriff told our correspondent the other day he "didn't think there were ten Greeley men in the county outside of Ilion." In Ilion and vicinity there are, perhaps, twenty sympathizers, but only two of them avow that they will vote for GREELEY under any circumstances. On the other hand, there are many Democrats who will give their votes for GRANT rather than GREELEY, should the Democrats indorse him. In any event, the ticket cannot lose much more than it gains, if any, WILSON's nomination is well received.

JEFFERSON COUNTY.

The political aspect of the Republican Party in this county, from present indications, promises well for a large majority for GRANT in November. GREELEY's prospects in Jefferson County among the Republicans are very small. About one-half the towns in the county claim that they have not a Greeley Republican in town, while the balance of the towns have from one to three, except Watertown, which has six, and these are made up of persons having no political influence in the county, and who cannot carry with them any political strength. Should the Democrats adopt GREELEY at the Baltimore Convention, the Republican majority for GRANT will be exceedingly large.

KINGS COUNTY.

From this county our information is from Democratic and Republican sources. They agree that the Greeley movement has enlisted a considerable number of respectable Republicans and still more prominent Democrats. Among the Republicans, however, the great majority of the Greeley men belong to the old Fenton, Geddard and Bliss Ring, which was started when FENTON was Governor, and changed into a Water Board Ring at a later day. Among the Democrats, the leaders are all Ring men, and the best informed insist that the masses of the Democratic Party will be hopelessly divided by GREELEY's nomination, and that the Democrats who will reject him will number more than the Republicans who will accept him. It is as yet impossible, however, to forecast the probable result in November.

LEWIS COUNTY.

The nominations of GRANT and WILSON are well received in Lewis County. The large majority of Republicans are abundantly satisfied, both with the nominations and the platform. At the county seat there are a few Greeley men, but with a few exceptions they are all disappointed aspirants for local county offices, and hoping to gain some place by a "new deal," they are adherents of anybody who can promise an office to them. The farmers and business men are heard frequently that the Administration has been good one for the past three years, and they do not want a change—certainly not if a different policy is to prevail.

LIVINGSTON COUNTY.

The nomination of GRANT and WILSON is well received here. There are very few Republicans outspoken for GREELEY. Should he be nominated at Baltimore, probably a few disappointed office-seekers would declare for him, hoping to improve their situation, but the great body of the Republican Party will stand firm by their standard bearers.

MONROE COUNTY.

Monroe County sent more delegates to Cincinnati than any other county in the State except New-York. FENTON has some friends here, and they mean to make as much noise as possible. Our correspondent at Rochester writes: "I am surprised at the steadfastness of the masses, and particularly of most of those who, in the divisions we have had for a year or two, were against us, meaning, of course, those who heretofore have voted and sympathized with FENTON. If the Fentonians are expective to accomplish much here, it is certainly not now visible on the surface. Don't be alarmed if you hear after hear of democrats say here in the interest of GREELEY, as they will, be manufactured to order. But I shall be surprised if, with all the prestige of HENRY R. SELDEN's good name and the desperate efforts of D. D. S. BROWN, there be 200 Greeley votes cast by Republicans in Monroe County, and if GREELEY should be nominated at Baltimore you may set us down as a full majority for GRANT of at least 1,200. GREELEY's chances looked better the first week after Cincinnati, but he is rapidly 'growing smaller by degrees and beautifully less.'"

MONTGOMERY COUNTY.

There are very few Greeley Republicans in this county: St. Johnsville, 2; Palatine, 3; Meriden, 5; Canajoharie, 5; Root, 4; Mohawk, 5; Glen, 8; Charlestown, 6; Amsterdam, 5; Florida, 5—making 43 in the county. This county is usually 250 Democratic. According to our advices, GRANT will have a small majority—say 50. The farmers in Montgomery are outspoken and decided. The few Greeley men are screbeads and cannot control a vote besides their own.

NEW-YORK.

It is not possible, in the space allowed by such a review as this, to give a detailed account of the political condition of New-York City. It can only be said generally that while a large number of the unreflecting working men appear to be for GREELEY, that Democrats as well as Republicans, having large business interests, are earnestly for GRANT. The Tammany Democrats and Republicans, such as Wm. M. Tweed, John Cochrane, John Morrissey, Rioter John U. Andrews, Harry Genet, Ben. F. Manierre, "Ancillary" Barr, Oakey Hall, and others of like character, are all for GREELEY, but they are not quite so powerful as they were in former years. We have a new registry and election law, which, being coupled with the fact that the United States election law is operative this year, will prevent these men from voting their retainers more than once each. Consequently GREELEY will not have more than 30,000 to 35,000 majority in the City. Speaking of affairs as they are now, we can assure our friends in the County that this is the utmost they will have to overcome, and it may be much less.

NIAGARA COUNTY.

The situation in this county is very satisfactory, as there are but few Greeley Republicans, and even those are not in earnest for him. When GREELEY becomes the Baltimore candidate of the Democratic Party, GRANT will gain much more than he will lose—fully five. We may fairly expect good results from the Cattaraut County in November next for GRANT and WILSON, as well as on County, State, and Congressional nominations.

ONEIDA COUNTY.

Very few Republicans in this county will sustain and vote for Mr. GREELEY, much less than expected by all immediately after the Cincinnati Convention. Well-informed persons have no doubt that the Republican majority will be increased in Oneida County this Fall.

ONONDAGA COUNTY.

The Republicans of Onondaga are firm and true now, as they were throughout the war. In the towns they have the same spirit and determination which has characterized their efforts in former years, and in the City of Syracuse they are just as ready to maintain the Union as they were to save it. The Republicans of this county believe in GRANT, and will support him even more earnestly than they did in 1868. A few who supported him then have since been disappointed in their aspirations for office, and out of revenge have become the servants of the Democratic Party, but the number is neither large nor influential. You may put Onondaga down for fully as good a majority next November as was given GRANT in 1868. The Republicans are well organized already, and are ready for the fight. They will carry the field next Fall by at least their usual majorities on Presidential, State and local tickets.

ONTARIO COUNTY.

Our correspondent in Canandaigua writes as follows: "I have been in quite a number of towns in this county and the adjoining within three weeks past, and have conversed with prominent and active men in each, who have testified emphatically that a Greeley Republican is not to be found in their town. In Macedon, Wayne County, I talked with a prominent citizen who has been a Justice of the Peace for many years, and has taken the Tribune from the start, and knows Mr. GREELEY personally, who denounced his course in unmeasured terms, and said he meant to write to him and tell him plainly what he thought of his apostacy. He said he did not know of a single Greeley Republican in the town. In another town in this county I have talked with men who take the Tribune, who have been soldiers, and they denounced GREELEY's course; that there was not a single Greeley man among them. Count the Republican Party in this county as a unit in the support of Gen. GRANT."

ORANGE COUNTY.

Our general accounts from this county are fully confirmed by the Newburg Journal, which says: "Our Republican majority in this county is not a large one, but small as it is the defection is not large enough to effect its overthrow, even if a Democrat should be nominated at Baltimore and Mr. GREELEY thereupon run as a third candidate. If Mr. GREELEY should be indorsed by the Democrats, Gen. GRANT will receive the largest majority which Orange County has ever given to a Republican President. The majority which is piled up last Fall for the Republican ticket will be equaled if not exceeded."

ORLEANS COUNTY.

There is no doubt that Gen. GRANT will receive nearly the whole of the Republican vote. The Cincinnati ticket so far has not made any serious inroad into the Republican ranks, and there are towns where GREELEY will hardly poll a Republican vote. There are more Republicans at the county seat who will support GREELEY than elsewhere. The number of Republicans who will support GREELEY will be small, and more Democrats will support GRANT than Republicans will vote for GREELEY. In addition to this a good many Democrats, in case GREELEY is nominated at Baltimore, will not vote at all. Quite a number of Democrats are known who will vote and work for GRANT against GREELEY, and Orleans is certain to do better this year than in 1868 for Gen. GRANT.

OSWEGO COUNTY.

In this county there are from 150 to 200 Republican voters who are not taking GREELEY. If the Democrats should adopt GREELEY at Baltimore, the above numbers might be increased, thinking he would then stand a better chance for an election; but in case GREELEY should be indorsed by the Democrats, it is the opinion of leading Republicans in Oswego that GRANT would get more Democratic votes than GREELEY would get from Republicans.

OTSEGO COUNTY.

The Philadelphia nominations are received by Republicans with satisfaction. The party is substantially a unit for GRANT and WILSON in this county, there being only two or three outspoken Greeley Republicans, with perhaps five more who are not outspoken for GRANT, which [illegible] will vote for GRANT in preference to GREELEY. The number of Greeley men in Otsego County do not exceed 100.

PUTNAM COUNTY.

A resident of thirty years in the county informs us that, in his opinion, the county will go as well for GRANT as it did four years ago. There are some Greeley Republicans, but it is safe to say that we shall get more Democrats than we shall lose Republicans. The better and more substantial Democrats will vote for GRANT. The Tribune is hurting GREELEY every day. The county is about 200 Democratic majority, but GREELEY cannot do that well.

QUEENS COUNTY.

Our correspondent says: "It is difficult to estimate the Greeley Republican strength in Queens County. Tacks, and possibly four, of the County Committee are now Greeley men; as are a few of the old Fishbone original Republicans in each town. The Republican Sheriff is counted for GREELEY, and L. F. PRATT, an Ex-United States Gauger, is the principal organizer and speaker. I would set down the Greeley Republican strength today at five. In case he becomes the Democratic candidate, however, this number will be materially reduced. Among the Democrats, Hon. E. A. LAWRENCE is a very enthusiastic Greeley man; Hon. J. R. OAKLEY, the delegate to Baltimore, is also for GREELEY. He cannot, however, poll nearly the Democratic vote; and in case of his nomination at Baltimore, his majority in the county, (which is largely Democratic,) would, I think, be 400 less than the average Democratic majority on the State ticket."

RENSSELAER COUNTY.

There are in the City of Troy at this time not more than fifteen pronounced Greeley Republicans. In the country towns there are scarcely any except in two or three towns—not a half dozen in all. If the Democrats should nominate GREELEY at Baltimore, and the impression should prevail that there would be a chance of his election, the number will be increased both in Troy and the country, but in no event will the number be large. Greeleyism has no strength among Republicans in this county. In case of his indorsement at Baltimore, Gen. GRANT will get ten Democrats to every Republican he will lose.

RICHMOND COUNTY.

The Republican Party here is in as good condition as ever before. The defection to GREELEY is smaller than will be the defection from the Democracy to GRANT in case GREELEY receives the Baltimore nomination. The county will give GREELEY a majority, but it will be smaller than the majority against GRANT in 1868.

ROCKLAND COUNTY.

This county presents a good front, as the Republicans stand almost unanimous for GRANT and WILSON. The few disaffected members who look toward GREELEY are disheartened at their weak strength, and they get very little encouragement from the Democrats. The County of Rockland may be safely relied upon to do as well as at any time since 1860.

ST. LAWRENCE COUNTY.

Our Potsdam correspondent says: "I am an old resident of this county; know most of the leading Republicans in every town in this county; have seen and conversed with many since the nomination of Mr. GREELEY. I do not believe there are, all told, in this county, 200 Republicans who in the least sympathize with the Liberals. In many towns not one can be found; in others there are two or three, or perhaps five, who are a little dissatisfied, and talk faintly in favor of Mr. GREELEY. In Potsdam, the home of Gen. E. A. MERRITT, and the banner town of old St. Lawrence, the Liberals claim forty, but I understand that upon the organization of their Club they could only muster twenty-five, and to my certain knowledge the number is diminishing from day to day. The Republicans of St. Lawrence will remain true to the principles they have so long cherished and so nobly maintained, both on the field of battle and at the ballot-box; and when the day of election arrives you will record a majority for U. S. GRANT of 3,000 strong. Should the Democrats, at Baltimore, indorse GREELEY and BROWN, it will largely increase GRANT's majority, as the Democrats in this vicinity don't take Liberal pills, if they are sugar-coated by a Democratic National Convention."

SARATOGA COUNTY.

This county was one of the many counties in the State that was unrepresented at Cincinnati. It has always been regarded as a strong Fenton county, but patient inquiry fails to find a dozen Republicans in the entire county who favor the Greeley and Brown ticket. The general feeling is good, and is improving. There is no more than the usual number of dissatisfied persons at the beginning of a Presidential campaign, while there are some Democrats who will either vote for GRANT or remain away from the polls should GREELEY be indorsed at Baltimore. The county is certain to give at least 1,000 majority for GRANT and WILSON, but is expected to do very much better than this.

SCHENECTADY COUNTY.

In this county there are no Republicans of past or present prominence or influence who have identified themselves with the Greeley movement. We have received the names of about a dozen Republicans (Tribune readers) who have intimated that they would support GREELEY. Were the election to take place to-morrow, and the issue narrowed down to GRANT and GREELEY, (with Democratic indorsement,) GREELEY could not draw off fifty Republican votes in the entire county.

SCHOHARIE COUNTY.

The political aspect in Schoharie County is cheering. Republicans there are Republicans still, and will, almost to a man, zealously support the Philadelphia nominations, which are eminently satisfactory to the people. Greeley Republicans are few and far between. No one knows of a dozen in the county, although considerable inquiry has been made. The Democracy are in a very different situation. Some of them want GREELEY indorsed at Baltimore, others will support him reluctantly if nominated at their Convention, and another and quite numerous class among them say they will not vote at all rather than support their life-long antagonist. The indications are that there will be as many Democrats vote for GRANT as there will Republicans for GREELEY, and that the failure of many Democrats to vote if GRANT and GREELEY are the only candidates, will diminish rather than increase; as reported, the majority in this county against "the man that never was beaten."

SCHUYLER COUNTY.

The Republican ranks in Schuyler County are as firm and steady as in the days of LINCOLN, when the county gave 700 Republican majority. The treachery of HORACE GREELEY is deeply regretted by his old political friends, but there is not a dozen of them who have indicated any disposition to follow him into the Democratic camp. All now understand the motives that have inspired the Tribune for a year past in its malignant attacks upon the Administration of Gen. GRANT. The Tribune cannot lead honest, intelligent Republicans astray, and the integrity of the Republican Party of Schuyler is still unshaken.

SENECA COUNTY.

Greeleyism has worked wonders for GRANT in this county, which has heretofore been Democratic, but with the issue between GRANT and GREELEY, the Republicans will carry the county by a larger majority than the Democrats have ever had. This redemption will be due to the fact that GREELEY has no Republican strength, and that large numbers of Democrats openly declare that they will not vote for him. Grant and Wilson Clubs are being organized throughout the county, and the party has never been so confident of success since 1860, as they are to-day.

STEUBEN COUNTY.

There has been some dissatisfaction among the Republicans in this county, and two or three who have been of some prominence in the party have gone wading in political mire after Mr. GREELEY. But our correspondent, who is fully informed of the conditions of affairs, says: "The few Greeley men cry loud and make a great noise and blow, and it is often we hear that one or that village or section is all for GREELEY. When facts are ascertained in regard to it, there may be found a dozen or twenty all told. The Democrats are, as a rule, true and staunch. The rank and file will take their position after the Baltimore Convention, and they will not in any event add any material strength to the Greeley movement in this section. In summing up the whole matter I have the pleasure to report that the drift of public opinion as the Democratic position is decidedly in favor of the nominees of the Philadelphia Convention, GRANT and WILSON, and that we are as true to the Republican Party, and that in November next we shall be able to show that the bolters have failed to make any division to speak of in our ranks."

SUFFOLK COUNTY.

A thorough canvass of this county shows very few Greeley Republicans, and the usual rounding up of the Democrats to the Chappaqua woodchopper. After a careful examination of the political field in Suffolk County, our correspondent thinks that it will need a vigorous majority for GRANT and WILSON than it ever gave for a Presidential or Gubernatorial candidate.

SULLIVAN COUNTY.

Our correspondent has lately seen men from almost every town in the County of Sullivan, and made inquiries with regard to the effect of an indorsement of the Cincinnati ticket by the Baltimore Convention. He is satisfied that GREELEY thus indorsed cannot carry a larger vote than a straight-Democrat would. There are some Republicans going with GREELEY, but he cannot carry the whole Democratic vote. The foreign element is against GREELEY, and there are some prominent native in that party that will either vote for GRANT, or not vote at all. This county usually gives about 100 Democratic majority, GREELEY cannot get over 400.

TIOGA COUNTY.

The Republican vote of this county in round numbers is 3,900. If the Presidential election could take place now, and it was a contest simply between GRANT and GREELEY, it is probable GREELEY would draw off one-tenth of the party strength. This support would come in the main, from two towns, Owego and Candor, and chiefly from the villages of the same name in those two towns. It is a remarkable fact that the farmers are solid for GRANT, and the most bitter opponents of GREELEY among them are old-time Tribune readers and the life-long followers of HORACE. The result, then, is clearly indicative of what they can accomplish this Fall, and is a fair criterion of what may be expected by this unnatural coalition throughout our State. But it is safe to say that any Republican disaffection will be more than compensated by Democratic desertion and apathy if GREELEY is adopted at Baltimore. The Republican organization is perfect. A call is now circulating for the formation of Grant and Wilson Campaign Clubs, having already over three hundred signers, comprising the best men of our locality. The young men are all with us for GRANT and WILSON. Tioga is safe for her usual Republican majority.

TOMPKINS COUNTY.

In the town of Ithaca there is quite a GREELEY element, due mainly to the influence and leadership of Geo. W. SCHUYLER. Our correspondent judges, after careful consideration, that there are perhaps one hundred Republicans in the town who have expressed a preference for GREELEY. In Newfield, Caroline and Dryden there is also quite a GREELEY element, but hardly sufficiently developed to be measured. He is confident, however, that the movement for GREELEY is not as strong today as it was three weeks ago, and that it is losing instead of gaining ground. On the other hand, the genuine Republicans are becoming more enthusiastic and active every day. He has rarely seen them, early in a campaign, so lively and earnest as they are now. They are sure to make as vigorous and determined a fight as they have ever done in the past. He sums his judgment of this county in this way: If the Democrats indorse GREELEY at Baltimore GRANT will carry the county by its full ordinary majority.

ULSTER COUNTY.

Our correspondent says: "I have consulted some prominent men of our party, and they think that any publication as to the condition of affairs in this county had better not be made at present. You may rest assured that we are not losing ground, and will do as well, if not better, than heretofore. The talking Greeley men here are old Copperheads, who probably will not support him if adopted at Baltimore."

WARREN COUNTY.

Our correspondent at Glen's Falls writes: "I have talked with quite a number of Republicans in this county who were formerly Greeley men, and I find but three or four in the whole county that favor him now. There may be others, but they are precious few. The Democrats are divided. Some declare they will vote for GRANT if GREELEY is indorsed at Baltimore. Others indorse GREELEY as their only hope to beat GRANT. More Democrats will vote for GRANT than Republicans for GREELEY."

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The feeling among our Republican friends in Washington County was never better. Gen. GRANT's Administration has the confidence of the people, and nothing but the opposition will or can say will shake that confidence. The records are too plain. There are some Greeley, or, we should more properly say, some Fenton men in this county who would, if they felt sufficient of success, support the scrubhead ticket, but unless the current changes, very few will. If GREELEY should be indorsed by the Baltimore Convention, we should gain as many Democratic votes as we shall lose Republicans.

WAYNE COUNTY.

At this time there are not enough Greeley Republicans in Wayne County for a corporal's guard. Some few remain "passive," awaiting the action of the Baltimore Convention, but are wholly the personal retainers of FENTON. If the result at Baltimore is satisfactory to them, it is expected they will sequeue the cause of GREELEY, FENTON & Co. But in that event it is the prevailing opinion of the best workers that our majority will not be materially affected, for as between President GRANT and GREELEY, many Democrats now announce their determination to vote for GRANT. The old "Woodpecker" of Chappaqua, and his "no longer an organ" are not making any headway in the Republican ranks of this county.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

Our fully-informed correspondent in the county where Mr. GREELEY resides writes as follows: "I believe the Republicans will support GRANT, with very few exceptions, and that there will be more Democrats vote for him than Republicans who will vote for GREELEY, and that the Democratic (GREELEY) majority in the counties of this district will be much less than usual. The Republicans feel toward GREELEY now as they did toward ANDY JOHNSON, and GREELEY will have no influence in drawing them over to the Democrats. GREELEY has no local strength in this county, (Westchester,) and I believe he would be defeated in his own town if he should run for the office of Supervisor."

WYOMING COUNTY.

After careful inquiry, our correspondent does not know of any Republicans who will vote for GREELEY unless he is indorsed at Baltimore, and in that case the indications are that more Democrats would either vote for GRANT, or not vote at all, than could be brought into the coalition from the Republican ranks. There is a very general satisfaction among Republicans with the action and the result at Philadelphia, and in many of the towns of Wyoming not one Republican in a hundred now favors GREELEY. In others, local causes and the waning Tribune influence have detached a few more. But there is nowhere any enthusiasm—any prevailing discontent, or any present detection that the Democratic bolt from GREELEY, should he be indorsed at Baltimore, would not be more than neutralized in the county at large.

YATES COUNTY.

In this region of variable political verdicts and chronic bolters, there is some Greeleyism among men who have been supposed to be Republicans, but there are a large number of Democrats who cannot be induced to vote for GREELEY. The county is sure to do better for GRANT than it did.

Monday, July 1—P. M.

The Fiscal Year of the United States of 1871-'72, known as the Fiscal Year 1872, closed on Saturday last, June 29. It has proved a prosperous, and in many respects a remarkable year, prosperous for the Country in its trade and freedom from losses or revulsions; prosperous for the Treasury and the Public Credit, in ample revenues, in reduced rates of taxation, and in the fullest liquidation of the Public Debt, and permanent relief to the yearly interest charge thereon, and remarkable in adding 7,500 miles to our Railway system, and thereby adding nearly 12 ₹ cent. to our material advancement, and in the steady increase in our Foreign Trade and Domestic Manufactures. The last have had an increase in the line of Metals, and of Cotton and Woolen Fabrics, not less notable than the increase of consumption of Foreign Goods. The gross business of importation is about 17½ ₹ cent. over last year, but the actual value of Foreign Goods consumed or marketed from the Custom-house will not prove over 12½ ₹ cent., a large share of the recent importations passing into Bonded Warehouse to await the reduced duties.

The Public Finances continue to afford abundant cause of congratulation. In the last Fiscal Year, the Principal of the Funded Debt, bearing interest in Gold, has been reduced about one hundred million dollars, or from $1,888,000,000 to $1,790,000,000. And the Gold Interest on this debt, from $110,545,000 per annum, to $108,000,000. In the three Fiscal Years under the present Administration—or from March 4, 1869, to June 29, 1872—the relations of the Funded Public Debt to the Customs Revenues, specially pledged to its support and reduction, show that both Principal and Interest of the former have rapidly decreased, while the latter, notwithstanding the reduction in the Tariff of 1870, have steadily advanced. The monthly Gold Interest charge upon the Debt and the average monthly Customs receipts in Gold, together with the average reduction of the Funded Debt, may be thus stated:

Year.	Monthly Customs.	Gold Interest charge.	Reduction Principal.
1869	$13,500,000	$10,250,000	$100,000,000
1870	16,200,000	9,700,000	119,000,000
1871	17,300,000	9,000,000	100,000,000
1872	19,000,000	8,600,000	90,000,000

Total reduction Principal.....$307,000,000
Reduction of interest ₹ year.....$1,000,000

The circulation of the Treasury (or unfunded Debt of the Government) has been reduced in the three years about $17,000,000; and the Currency Interest thereon from $3,183,000 has been almost wholly extinguished by the withdrawal of the Three ₹ cent. Greenback Certificates.

In regard to the new Fiscal Year upon which we are now entering, and which will feel the further reduction of the Tariff, as well as the abolition of many of the Internal Taxes, it is, perhaps, safe to estimate that whereas the Tariff reductions are nominally $34,000,000 a year, (on the basis of the Importations of 1871,) the Customs receipts of the year will hardly fall off $24,000,000. This would leave $16,000,000 per month in the year just closed, and afford $192,000,000 Gold for the whole year to pay the Gold Interest, which should fall below $100,000,000, and contribute over $92,000,000 to the Sinking Fund and general purposes of the Treasury.

The weekly averages of the Associated Banks, Local and National, reporting through the Clearing-house for the week ending Saturday last, June 29, compare as follows with the previous week, and also with the corresponding week last year. To which we add the Gold and Currency balance in the New-York office of the United States Treasury at these dates respectively:

On an advance during the week of ¼ ₹ cent. on Gold and as much on Exchange on London, the Public Funds show a rise of 1 @ 1½ ₹ cent., with a strong demand at the close of the week. They are also up in London, and encouragement is held out that a further negotiation of our New Loan 5 ₹ cents will soon be practicable abroad as well as at home.

The sales of Gold on Saturday advanced to 113¼ ₹ cent., and closed at 113⅛ ₹ cent. Bills on London closed 110 ₹ cent. 60 days, which pays the Banker a profit on the shipment of Gold Coin, large sums of which are now being collected for Foreign account for July Dividends on United States and State Stocks, and various Railroad Loans, made payable in Gold. The Treasury disbursed, for July Interest, $5,050,000, of which $3,000,000 went to Europe, and nearly $3,000,000 counts on the Bank averages. The Customs receipts of this port for June fall below the Gold sales of the month about $300,000. The Customs in July will also be comparatively light. They were $12,450,000 in July last, but, owing to the postponement of the operation of the New Tariff, it is doubtful whether they will exceed $9,000,000 this season.

The Railroad Shares show an improvement in price on part of the list, as compared with Saturday week, and the bidding at the close was generally firm, but on a very light business.

We republish below, with numerous additions, our table of July Dividends:

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the Times will be received at No. 54 West 23d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 38d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,941 Broadway, between 66th and 67th-sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The NEW-YORK TIMES has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 111 Fulton-st., junction of Fulton and Main, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

This morning, we are enabled to make our exhibit of the political condition of the State of New-York all but complete. The facts concerning every county, except two, in the State, which we publish on our first and second pages, have been carefully gathered by correspondents in each county, to whom we said that we simply desired the exact truth. Treason to principle has rarely been remunerative, and this view of the political condition of New-York shows that it was never less so than in the case of Mr. GREELEY. He staks all his hopes of the Presidency upon carrying this State, and in the light of the facts we now furnish, he may lose something of that doting confidence with which he has regarded his prospects. When we presented him with the facts concerning thirty-two counties, he lost his temper in an editorial, the proof of which he corrected at the Union League Club. Now that he has the same story from fifty-eight counties, it is difficult to imagine what he will do. It is too much to hope, however, that he will see the truth, and admit that the scheme of the Tammany gang to regain control of New-York through his apostacy, is destined to fail.

There is a law as certain as gravitation that takes politicians of easy virtue into the Greeley camp. JNO. F. DILLON, of Michigan, who was turned out of Congress by his indignant constituents because he sold a Cadetship, turns up now as one of the most lusty howlers for a "reform" of the corruptions of this Administration. He takes his place in the ranks with WINANS, BOGARDUS, FITZ HENRY WARREN and other exemplars of the virtues of economy and retrenchment which constitute the "working capital" of the "anything-to-beat GRANT" partnership. To give the Greeley ticket any chance of succeeding it will be necessary to keep these fellows in the background, if it can be done, or else there will be no possibility of deceiving the most credulous voter in the land.

The Greeley organs, most of which are Democratic, make a great to-do about Gen. GRANT's having been "forced" on the Republican Party. Yet they fail to show by a single Republican who now supports him, who shed tears over his nomination, or any Convention in which he has been described as "a bitter pill," or as "an emetic," or as "boiled crow," which could be swallowed, but which no human being "hankered after."

Florida is confidently claimed by the Democrats for GREELEY; but the most reliable advices from that State indicate that, with reasonable care in making State nominations, the State is safe for the Republican Party. Florida has suffered much from bad management, and some disputable men, whom we have heretofore exposed, have had altogether too much favor there. The honest Republicans in the State owe it to themselves to make a sure for the national ticket, by presenting a State ticket of unsullied names.

The Tribune will, doubtless, be happy to state that the Greeley ranks, which already contain JOHN U. ANDREWS, the leader of the July riots in 1863, are strengthened by the addition of another distinguished rebel, Mr. GEORGE N. SANDERS. This gentleman before the war was a Washington lobbyist of rather loafarish tendencies. During the war he was a rebel agent and figured extensively in the famous negotiations at Niagara Falls, where he fooled Mr. GREELEY to the top of his bent. In his triple character of lobbyist, rebel and member of Tammany he is every way fitted to appreciate the value of GREELEY as a Democratic candidate.

Facts continue to come from the South which serve to show where Mr. GREELEY finds a foundation for his hope that he is to carry the Southern States. In addition to the outrages at Milton and Yanceyville, N. C., we have news that the Ku-Klux are actively at work for the Tammany candidate in Lowndes County, Alabama. At this place they visited a prominent Democrat who had announced that he could not support GREELEY, and warned him that he must do it or leave the county. The Tribune will doubtless see in this affair another evidence of "that spirit of ignorant lawlessness which inevitably grows up in a country under military rule;" but sensible people will believe that under military rule such things would be impossible. They are possible only because Southern lawlessness expects from Mr. GREELEY's election such a season of unbridled license as it has not enjoyed since GRANT crushed the rebellion.

The general impression is that Judge McCUNN will be unable to secure a single favorable vote from the State Senate to-morrow. It is very difficult to imagine on what grounds any vote could be recorded in his favor. In spite of the Tribune's very decided assertion to the contrary, the retirement of McCUNN and his counsel from the case is equivalent to a confession of judgment. Judge McCUNN worked very hard to have his case passed on by the Senate alone, and now he takes occasion to shelter himself behind the plea that the Senate is not duly qualified to decide upon the question of his removal. All the evidence before the Senate points in one direction, and that is the same direction taken by the public sentiment of New-York. It has been unanswerably proven that McCUNN has disgraced the Bench, and neither he nor his counsel have ventured to contradict the testimony. Though we have no doubt about the requisite two-thirds vote against McCUNN being forthcoming, we trust that no Senator will absent himself because the verdict seems a foregone conclusion. A few such abstentions would be equivalent to the acquittal of McCUNN. The few Senators who have not been present at the oral hearing of the evidence, know enough about it to entitle them to vote, and they would simply fulfill their obvious duty to their constituents in attending at the Senate Chamber on Tuesday.

Baltimore—And Then What?

It may be accepted as a foregone conclusion, that HORACE GREELEY will receive the nomination, or indorsement, of the Baltimore Convention for the Presidency. In spite of the earnest protest of the more reputable and intelligent portion of the Democracy, who make principle the guide of political action, and who would fain retain their party pride and self-respect, the great Democratic Party of the United States is doomed to the humiliation of going into the Presidential canvass of 1872 with a candidate who has been all his life long their most bitter and vituperative opponent, and whose only present recommendation is that he has been nominated by an insignificant sore-headed faction of his own party, and is distasteful even to them. To suppose that such an irrational combination of antagonistic factions, having nothing in common, either in past traditions or present principles, can rally around a standard-bearer with whom both are dissatisfied, and succeed in electing him President of the United States, is to suppose that an entire change has taken place in the principles and laws on which human action has hitherto been predicated. It would imply such a demoralization of public sentiment, such recklessness and frivolity, such mental chaos, so to speak, among the masses of the people, as would amount almost to national insanity.

It sometimes happens that a craze, like this, will seize upon a small locality, and carry a majority with it into a course of conduct that is erratic and absurd; but it has never yet been known to take possession of a nation of forty millions of people. The great bulk of the citizens of the United States, it is fair to presume, will be guided in their choice of a President for the next four years by motives of patriotism and the public welfare. They will pay some regard to the fitness of the candidate for the office—to his character for consistency, stability, and firmness, to his executive ability, to his past services and his claims on the respect of his countrymen—and not be guided altogether by the color of his hat and coat, or the eccentricities and oddities of dress, conduct, or speech that he may display to his gaping crowd of followers. They will enter upon the discussions of the Presidential campaign with a sense of their duties and responsibilities as citizens of a free Government, and not as actors in a low comedy, or as aiders and abettors in the perpetration of a huge practical joke. They will consult the honor and dignity of their country, and hot burlesque democratic government by electing the most notoriously unfit man among them to the head of affairs.

Entertaining this confidence in the patriotism, sanity, and good sense of the American people, we have no more idea that HORATIO GREELEY can be elected President than we have that he deserves to be elected. Nor do we believe that one in ten of the Democrats who are urging his nomination at Baltimore has the slightest expectation of electing him. Their object in adopting him as a candidate is—first, to create a permanent split in the Republican Party, which, so long as it remains united, and experience has taught them is a perpetual bar to their attaining possession of the Federal Government. Their second and more immediate object is to acquire possession, through the aid of their Republican allies, of as many State Governments as possible, and to try and elect a Congress that shall be opposed to Gen. GRANT's second Administration.

In this State, which is credited with the honor of dictating GREELEY's nomination at Cincinnati, the corrupt alliance between the Greeley faction and the infamous Tammany Democracy is so clear and patent as to defy contradiction. There is not a Democrat connected with the late Tammany Ring or the Brooklyn Ring who is not a loud-mouthed champion of GREELEY for President. Tammany still controls the Democracy of the State, as was shown in its last State Convention, and in the men of that party returned to the last Legislature. It suits the purpose of the Tribune to deny that there was any bargain or understanding between the Greeley men and the Democrats in Albany last Winter to act and vote together against Republican and reform measures; but every member of the Legislature knows that such an understanding did exist, and if some of those who joined in the corrupt alliance are now anxious to repudiate it, it is because on returning home they found that the bargain was repudiated by their constituents. At the adjournment of the Legislature, there were not less than five Republican Senators who were regarded as Greeley men; now there is only one who dares avow himself such, and his name, we understand, is enrolled on a Grant Club in his district. The others candidly admit that they found, on returning from the Legislature, no Greeley constituents to back them.

But the compact has been made, and it must be adhered to, or there will be a row in the camp of the allied factions in this State. The Greeley Republicans must indorse the Democratic State ticket, with JOHN T. HOFFMAN at the head, or the Baltimore indorsement of the old white coat will be repudiated by the other parties to the compact, and the whole programme will fall through. There must also be an equal distribution of indorsements in the Congressional districts, and HOFFMAN's claims must not be ignored.

How do the few honest Republicans, who have been led away by this Cincinnati movement, relish the idea of being used to bolster up the Tweed Ring, and perpetuate the ascendancy of Tammany in this State? How do honest Democrats like it? And yet this is the meaning of GREELEY's nomination at Cincinnati, and of his indorsement at Baltimore. It has no other meaning for the people of this State, and we shall be greatly mistaken if the honest men of either the Republican or Democratic Party, who had no voice in the compact, make haste to carry out the programme.

The Orange and the Green.

The Orange Irish Parade on the 12th of July seems inevitable; and it must be admitted that, with the route which has been prescribed by the Police authorities, and under the recently-made law which requires all processions to halt for the passage of railway cars, the public will be put to as little inconvenience on this occasion as possible. But there are two reasons why there will be general regret that permission was given for this parade. First, there is a chance that, with all the precaution that can be taken, there may be a violent breach of the peace before the day is over. It is amusing and amusing to see the tone which the two Irish factions take upon this question of their right to fight out an old quarrel on our soil. There are deputations, and there are meetings, nay, conferences, and there are solemn compromises proposed. Rights are discussed—the right of breaking heads for constructive insults, and of going armed and prepared to fire volleys through the streets; and one party, with bland superiority, proposes to the other, to address them a memorial, with a suggestion that then probably the matter may be arranged amicably and to the honor of both parties, whereupon there is a display of a most dignified revulsion of feeling and a high tone is taken. "We memorialize you! We'll"—— Well, it may be inquired what they would see done first. And all the while no allusion is made to such insignificant parties to the question as the Governor and the People of the State of New-York, (who, however, seemed last 12th of July to have something to say about the matter,) but a sort of arbitration between the two high contracting parties of the Orange and the Green, as to how they would settle their rival claims to the highways of the City. We gladly admit that the Green manifesto, issued from the Irish Democrat office, gives good advice, which, if followed, will prevent a breach of the peace, but even this has rather the air of saying to the Orangemen: "If you keep out of our way, why, very well, we suppose that we must endure you; but if we meet any of you, look out for a shindy!"

So much for the first reason for regretting the permission for this procession. The second is that the Orange parade involves that on St. Patrick's Day hereafter; and we hoped that under the new law and with the power given to the Police, and in consideration of the strong public feeling upon this matter, we might be rid of both these nuisances, and all of their kind, hereafter. But having said A, we shall have to say B; and the new Procession law will give us little more relief in our streets than the new Jury law does in our Courts. There is no reason whatever why the streets of New-York should be obstructed, and the Police, overworked already, be put almost under arms on occasion of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. It might as well be done on the anniversaries of the battle of Thermopylæ, and the battle of Hastings. And why, because there was, or was not, a St. Patrick of Ireland, should we be subjected to another vexation, ten-fold greater than that of the anniversary of King WILLIAM? If there be a Saint who should be publicly honored in New-York, it is St. Nicholas, or St. George. But neither of the two peoples who founded and built up this City, and whose former feuds are chronicled in the grave and veracious pages of Diedrich Knickerbocker, ever think of making a show and a nuisance of themselves on the days of their patron saints. And St. James, and St. Denis, and St. Andrew, and all the rest of them, except St. Patrick, keep themselves to themselves, like quiet sensible saints as they are. And we say plainly, that there is no reason why the Irish Saint should not follow their example, and get into the company of "jintlemen, and daycent people." Riot or no riot, the public is sick of this whole matter of Irish processions, Protestant or Catholic, and says alike to the Orange and the Green, "a plague o' both your houses!"

State and Congressional Nominations.

Very much depends, in the present Presidential campaign, upon the character of the Republican nominations for Congress and for State officers. The party requires this year, of all others, the best men at the front. In the heat and excitement of a Presidential contest, the camp-followers of a great organization are sure to seek their opportunity. They endeavor, by extraordinary partisan zeal, and by energy and application in doing the drudgery of the canvass, to earn the right to dictate its policy and share in its honors. It is particularly incumbent on disinterested and sincere Republicans to see that, whether from this cause, or any other, no men save those of conspicuous merit and ability are forced upon the party. The Republican Party now has a strong hold on the intelligent and conscientious citizens of the country, and the maintenance of this hold is essential to its success. The party will be injured, and ought to be, by every bad nomination made.

Especially in this State should the utmost care be observed. We are fighting for genuine reform against sham reform. The Tammany-Greeley Party are fighting for spoils alone, under the pretense of seeking a purification of politics. They will endeavor, screened by this pretense, to foist corrupt men upon the various sections of the State and on the State at large. They must be met by nominations beyond the shadow of suspicion. We enter on another year with an unusually fair State Senate, and with an opportunity of making the Assembly as good, and redeeming the Executive from the disgrace of HOFFMAN's continued incumbency. This opportunity must be fully used. It would be not only a great disaster but a great disgrace, if the Fenton-Hoffman coalition succeeded in blocking the wheels of reform another year as they blocked them last year.

The duty of Republicans is equally plain and important in Congressional Districts. In them a desperate fight will be made by the Tammany party. It is vital to their plan to control, if possible, the next House of Representatives, and so to obtain the basis for carrying out their schemes in the National Government. Every division of the Republican Party in the Congressional districts, in all the States, will give them the opportunity they are looking for, and will be fostered to the utmost. There is one way to avoid division and baffle the plans of our enemies. It is to make only first-class nominations, such as all Republicans can and must heartily sustain.

A Tragical Enigma.

There is a terrible fascination to many besides the professional detectives, in the attempt to discover the identity of an assassin by putting together the broken threads of circumstantial evidence, generally found in profusion about every mysterious murder. The less readily these threads knit together and the more incongruous they are when joined, the more intense is the interest in the work of attempting to weave from them a rope with which to hang the murderer. But if, after weeks of patient investigation, doubts should begin to arise whether any crime but that of self-murder had been committed, the case forces itself upon public attention as one of very rare occurrence. Hence the tragedy at Bridgeport, Conn., of which Capt. GEORGE M. COLVOCOORESSES was the victim, promises, from late developments, to absorb more of public interest than it has yet received.

At first there was no question but this was a deliberate, carefully-concocted murder for the sake of gain, which had been carried into execution with extraordinary nerve. Committed early in the evening, in a street of a large city, usually much frequented at that hour, the murder seemed to have been done by one who had patiently followed his victim, and finding darkness and solitude where neither could have been expected, seized the opportunity thus suddenly presented. There was nothing improbable thus far in the theory of murder, and it was greatly strengthened by the discovery of memoranda which seemed to show that Capt. COLVOCOORESSES had been robbed of a large amount in securities. Here was a motive for the crime, and the officers appear to have worked as honestly and zealously, as they have fruitlessly, upon this basis. They seem to have been troubled from the beginning by a circumstance never before encountered in murder; though the dead man had been shot through the heart, his coat and vest had not been perforated and his shirt had been burned, thus showing conclusively that the muzzle of the pistol had been placed within the two outer garments before the shot was fired. It was exceedingly difficult to imagine what sort of an assassin he must have been, who would have taken the chance of detecting his purpose by his shot going astray, as there was great danger it would from being hurriedly fired from the hip. [illegible] Failing to find the weapon close to the murderer, the detectives went back to the dead body, and have commenced a critical examination of the pistol and cartridge found beside it, which it is singular was not made before. It is found that there are indentations in the latter, in which the muzzle and hammer of the weapon exactly fit, thus raising the inference that the pistol was the property of the deceased, and consequently that he died by his own hand. As a fact leading to the same conclusion, it is announced that a few months before his death Capt. COLVOCOORESSES insured his life for the unusually large amount of $193,000; and being sixty-five years of age, he was paying twenty thousand dollars per annum in premiums, although now supposed to have been a comparatively poor man. Doubts have arisen whether he ever possessed the securities mentioned in his memoranda, and these are taken as additional evidence that the tragedy was nothing more than a suicide.

But it is urged against this theory that no man ever deliberately took his own life in the cause of philanthropy, and that the will of Capt. COLVOCOORESSES, executed March 9, 1872, containing charitable bequests to the amount of a few thousand dollars, shows that it is impossible that his death should have been the consummation of a shrewdly concocted plan to defraud the insurance companies. However little weight there may be in this suggestion, considering the comparatively small amount of these bequests, it must be admitted that there is a great deal in the fact that Capt. COLVOCOORESSES was a man of high character and stainless life, whom it is difficult to believe could have been guilty of a crime so entirely desperate and unparalleled as this would be, if the theory of suicide should be established. Men have often been guilty, at the close of long and honorable lives, of acts of which they were supposed incapable, but no man ever displayed the nerve and cunning in depravity which Capt. COLVOCOORESSES must have had, if he died by his own hand.

It can be readily seen that there are enigmas in this Bridgeport tragedy which will probably never be solved. Many absurd stories connected with it, like that of a belt belonging to a female dress, which it is proved a child had dropped when tired of playing with a kitten, have been exploded, but the undeniable facts surrounding the affair are sufficiently perplexing. Charity for the dead and knowledge of what adroit ruffians this world of ours contains, demand that the theory of suicide shall be accepted only upon the most irrefutable and convincing proof. It will not do for the officers of the law to assume that the case is one of self-murder, and now desist from all further effort. A most atrocious assassination may have been committed, and it is incumbent upon them to use every endeavor to bring the murderer, if there be one, to justice.

Natural Prophecies.

Now that news has come that the comet, which has been "going" for the earth for some time, and is expected to reach it on the 12th of August, has been seen from California, we shall be kept, no doubt, in a lively state of expectation until that fateful time arrives. It would do many people no harm to behave as if they were sure to wind up their career by the date assigned, and doubtless there are many poor souls—such, for example, as have heavy notes coming due on Aug. 13, and no prospect of being able to pay them—who would be glad of such a conviction. The measure of belief, however, in the predicted catastrophe would be an interesting, but very difficult thing to trace. Some idea of the number of those who believed in "Father MILLER'S" prophecy was gained by counting those who had provided themselves with ascension robes; but the summary operation looked for from the coming comet dispenses with any need for such vanities, and the only test of numerical credulity that occurs to us is to be found in the tables of suicides. If that is to say, the average number of suicides diminishes as we approach the 12th of August, a tolerable indication will be afforded of the extent of the belief in the direful threat of the comet. Plainly, self-destruction will be superfluous if the approaching luminary is to do the work anyhow, and of course it will be safer to avoid the future consequences of crime, whatever they may be.

We imagine, however, that whatever this or any other more ingenious or trusty test might disclose, that the number found to be really apprehensive would prove very limited. As the world grows older, the number of unfulfilled prophecies constantly increases, and hence the popular belief in such predictions is proportionally diminished. A remarkable prediction was made some years ago, which is now by some claimed to be in the process of fulfillment, and by others to have been falsified by events, but which non-Catholics may take it for granted will see hang, by common consent, be added to the list of mistaken calculations. This is the prophecy of a certain venerable and pious nun, who died some years ago, and whose announcements have been pretty widely circulated by religious and other journals. Her name was ANNA MARIA TAIGA, and her prophecy declares that what follows was to occur at about the present time. First, the present Pope was to live to end the twenty-seventh year of his pontificate. This, it will be observed, has already nearly been fulfilled. PIUS IX. was elected Pope on June 16, 1846, and consequently his twenty-seventh year in that dignity will be accomplished June 16, 1873. Sister ANNA MARIA's prophecy goes on to state that the Pope shall be captured in the Vatican "by iron as a prisoner before his death,"—and this, it is claimed, has been actually fulfilled. Previous to his departure for the new life, we are next advised, "there shall be made manifest sudden and terrible signs of God's wrath in the heavens, preceded by plague, epidemics, and wars, and a general disturbance of society." Thereafter, "for three days and three nights, Cimmerian darkness will cover the earth, hiding every object in the world from view." The people are warned by the prophetess to stay in-doors at this time, and neither to leave their houses nor even to look out of a window, since whoever tries to look at, "for the purpose of describing what is going on in the firmament, will be immediately struck down dead." Besides the inclosure of the Pontiff in the Vatican, it is claimed by some that the predictions referring to war and pestilence to occur at the same time have likewise been verified, and that nothing now remains to make good the whole of ANNA MARIA TAIGA's dolorous prediction, save the "Three Dark Days." It is surprising that these have not been associated so far with the approaching comet, either as consequences of its visitation, or otherwise. Perhaps, however, this would involve a minuteness of detail which your wiser prophet, as a rule, judiciously avoids.

So far as the comet is concerned, it is a comfort to know that we have not long to wait for it, and the amazing disparity between prophecies that have come to pass and that have proved failures, may not unreasonably warrant a feeling of security as against this, or the "Three Dark Days," or even the election of Mr. GREELEY. The latter is about as likely to happen as that the comet will strike the earth, and as the one event would necessarily forestall the other, we may rationally make our minds easy about both.

Honest Horace's Bankers.

"If I be not ashamed of my soldiers I am a sodden gurnet" exclaimed Falstaff, with much less reason than has Mr. GREELEY for similar lamentation. It was only suspected by the Knight that his recruits walked as if used to gyves, but the Sage may be sure that his managers cannot be mistaken for better men than they are.

"Reformer" FENTON, whose capacity for bed-making has rarely been equaled, finds a congenial companion in the rioter JOHN U. ANDREWS, who, having done the State some service at Sing Sing, is naturally anxious to have something more profitable under the auspices of the Sage. Then we have B. F. MUDGETT, with his great ability in denying his signature, and the man COACHMAN, with a great liking for silks. These are, however, but base artists compared with such supporters of the Sage as WM. M. TWEED, PETER B. SWEENY, HARRY GENET, BENJAMIN WOOD, A. CARTE HALL, and, in short, the whole Tammany crew. In addition, the Sage can boast that such men as WALDO HUTCHINS, JOHN COCHRANE, Gen. PALMER and FRANK LESLIE, proprietor of an obscene paper, are working "like beavers" in his behalf.

All these men are heartily for GREELEY. Why? They know the man; know how weak he is; know as well as Mr. BOWLES how open he is to flattery, and they scent unlimited plunder in his election. Judge MATTHEWS knew who surrounded Mr. GREELEY when he said that his election would mean an organized raid upon the Treasury. There is not a single one of the men by whom Mr. GREELEY is hemmed in from public sympathy, that the country does not distrust, and with good reason. The cry for "Reform" from such a crowd can delude no one, and the adventurers may as well save their breath for the wails of disappointment which they must set up in November.

MINOR TOPICS.

An official statement from the Internal Revenue Department shows that on May 31 the quantity of spirits in bond in the United States was 8,072,417 gallons. This would give rather more than a gallon to every adult male in the Union, and, considering that the daily production amounts to 217,808 gallons, it is pretty clear that whatever else we may have a scarcity of, it will not be whisky. In fact, the rate of production assumes positively alarming dimensions, when we consider that it is equivalent to 79,459,320 gallons per annum. Making due allowance for our large export trade in distilled spirits, and for the stimulated production due to the increase of duty on the 1st of August, it is pretty clear that, in spite of all efforts to the contrary, the national consumption of this class of intoxicating fluids is greatly on the increase.

We have, heretofore, had implicit faith in the device of consultation and discussion between employers and workmen as a remedy for trade disputes. The stormy conclusion of the meeting yesterday between the "boss" and journeymen barbers shows, however, that this mode of conciliation has also its drawbacks. As members of a very ancient guild, at least sixteen centuries old, say the antiquaries—the barbers seem to be great sticklers on the score of personal dignity. The Journeymen's Committee, at yesterday's conference, made some unguarded expressions, which the employers regarded as "insulting," and the Committee were, therefore, subjected to treatment which they reported as "brutal." Meanwhile, we suppose the breach between the two must be regarded as wider than ever, and the public that requires to be shaved will regard with natural dismay the prospect of undergoing the sensation of being flayed, at the hands of novices called in to supply the place of the indignant journeymen. In spite of chapter 88 of the laws of King HENRY VIII., the guild of barber-surgeons might be so far revived as to admit of a little blood-letting by the journeymen for the benefit of both "bosses" and men whom the hot weather seems to have made unduly choleric.

There are Indians and Indians. It is very necessary to bear this in mind when our indignation is justly excited by the reported murder of a United States General and nine companions by some of the marauding tribes in Texas. In that, nothing has been so productive of blunders in estimating the fruits of our Indian policy as the popular habit of setting down against the entire race the sins of a few unreclaimed tribes. Between the grade of civilization occupied by a Delaware or a Wyandotte and that occupied by an Apache, there is an interval as wide as that between Chinese tea-houses and a modern day-laborer. It is worse than nonsense to talk of the policy of peace and conciliation being altogether a failure, because a few years have not been sufficient to reclaim some 30,000 members of the tribes of the Plains from habits of robbery and murder. As a Christian and civilized people, this is the only policy that we can consistently and it is one perfectly consistent with [illegible] the Indian tribes [illegible] the improvements made within their center. People who talk vaguely about the massacre of an Indian tribe had better declare outright that simple and absolute extermination is the only method to solve our difficulties with the red men.

The statistics of fires during the past year show that the efficiency of our Fire Department has not been impaired. While there was the large increase of loss over the fires of the previous year, the total loss was $[illegible], against a total loss of $[illegible] in the year before, thus showing the highly satisfactory decrease of $1,[illegible]. Great credit is due the Fire Commissioners that they have left the excellent machine which the Republicans found handed over to them to run itself. So long as they continue to do so we may expect property in this City to be as safe as is possible from the ravages of fire, and we may likewise expect a continuance of that devotion to duty at the risk of life, which the Commissioners displayed at the Liberty-street explosion, and which the merchants of this City have not rewarded as it deserved.

The Waukesha Freeman, a Wisconsin paper, which like hundreds of others in the North-west is winning influence by independence and good sense, says:

"Mr. GRANT has his weak side, and it is the opposite of Mr. GREELEY's. As the faults of the latter spring from self-conceit, so those of the former arise from his modesty. Where he uses strong common sense has directed him he has rarely made mistakes, but doubting his judgment too often, he has taken counsel with men who held high positions in the nation, indeed but who have not generally had their patriotic ends in view, and so he has therefore made blunders, especially in official appointments. But these blunders he has always shown a willingness to rectify, and the friends of civil service reform have better grounds of hope in him than they have ever had before or elsewhere. Of his honest desire to fulfill the wishes of the people as soon as they are clearly expressed, there can be little doubt, and that he goes so faster than this is a reason for congratulation, and a decisive reason, we think, why Democrats should vote for him, rather than for one who would be liable to take the bit between his teeth, and rush over precedents and through quagmires after every jack-o'-lantern of reform that he might see, dragging the rules of the Government at his heels."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Sermonizing and Economy.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A gentleman who has been a reader of the Tribune ever since it was issued, said to his partner, a few days ago, as he saw that paper lying on a desk in his counting-room, "I wish we could keep this thing out of the office. I have stopped it at my house and can't endure the sight of it." An astonished neighbor, happening to be present, exclaimed: "What! you stop the Tribune? Is there any danger of its poisoning your mind?" "Not at all," was the reply, "but I don't want to lose my temper every morning."

If any newspaper reader, who has perused Mr. WHITELAW REID's essay on journalism, should take up the Tribune of the date of June 29, 1872, and glance at the closing paragraph of an article headed "Our Delphosophist," he would find a striking illustration of the wide difference between precept and practice, in your Professor of Journalism. In it President GRANT is educated after this wild fashion:

"If the President of Harvard University should appoint his father Professor of Greek, his uncle Professor of Latin, his brother-in-law Professor of Mathematics, and his great grandmother Professor of Rhetoric, and should, moreover, sell sheep-skins for his private emolument, we can imagine Mr. WINTHROP turning into something like indignation and actually suggesting a rotation."

If there is any decent citizen of the United States, whatever be his politics, or whoever his choice for the Presidency, who can read the above quotation without losing his temper, his disposition must be angelic or his sense of propriety wholly dead. To suppose such slurs itself the President, is to suppose that everything manly in human nature becomes extinct under the influence of political or personal opposition to a Presidential nominee.

A Brace of Car Nuisances.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have to ride upon the cars of the Forty-second-street and Grand-street Railroad to and from my business, and there is not an evening while going through Second-street but the cars and passengers are assailed by boys throwing stones, grit and mud, and without the least remonstrance on the part of the conductor when actually seeing the same committed.

Another nuisance, or that which is co-existing with and essential to the above, is the leaving carts, trucks and wagons to block up the street on each side, and upon these the boys congregate, with the temptation of being on a level with the windows, and see fully into the cars, and may be to see and spot who has the cleanest shirt-front to bespatter. A. K. S.

NEW-YORK, Friday, June 28, 1872.

The Benedicent Mr. Cook.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have read your editorial entitled "Traveling made easy," in Monday's issue, with considerable interest.

It was my good fortune to be a member of that famous Knight Templar excursion party that visited Europe last Summer, whom you may perhaps remember seeing on Broadway one hot day last June, previous to their departure. We were between forty and fifty in number, and crossed over the broad Atlantic to Cork, where we were to be met by a Mr. COOK, which was about the extent of our knowledge of him. The Mr. COOK had agreed for a very low consideration—some ninety pounds—to carry us over a tour, embracing Ireland, Scotland, England, Belgium, Rhenish Prussia, Switzerland and Italy, returning home through France. He was to provide first-class railways, boats, hotels, engage guides, porterage, omnibuses, &c., was in fact to pay every expense considered necessary for a period extending over some seventy-two days. I believe I can say not one of us expected he would be able to carry out the contract to our satisfaction, for we had all, at some time in our lives, been lured by some scheme that promised as brilliant as this, and we were prepared to accept some decidedly inferior arrangements in lieu of the first-class promised us by Cook.

You will, therefore, imagine our surprise and satisfaction when we found ourselves treated, in a measure, as a royal party, having special carriages, and in some cases special trains, at our disposal, and in finding the best state-rooms kept for us on boats. We domiciled in such houses as the Shelbourne in Dublin, the Inns of Court in London, Metropole in Geneva, and Vittoria in Venice. When we left our luggage behind in our rooms in the hotel in one city we found it, as if by magic, in our rooms in the next as soon as we arrived there; in fact, we had nothing to do but to "launch and enjoy ourselves," as expressed by a clergyman of our party. This was all owing to the Cooks, for there was no end to them, seemingly, each one being the reverse of the preceding one.

We learned that the reason of the great success the COOKS had met with in England was because they invariably performed everything they promised, even if they lost money, and besides they never sold a ticket over any route or sent a passenger to any hotel, all one of them had personally visited it and inspected it.

In pursuance of this plan I have learned that the elder member of the firm will leave London some time in September for a tour round the globe, taking in route New-York, Niagara, Omaha, Yosemite, Japan, China, Palestine, &c. So that by next year we can be prepared to hear of COOK's parties and passengers every running our country like they do the Old World; and the probabilities are that if any of our Americans wish to visit the Yosemite as easily as Central Park—to use one of your expressions—he must first write to London and get the privilege of joining one of COOK's parties as it passes through New-York.

No, Mr. Editor! Instead of waiting for an "American Cook," stop the English "Cook" when he reaches your City. Ask him to establish in New-York a house like he has in London, so open routes for pleasure travel in our country like he has in Europe, Asia and Africa, and to show us about methods of spending our Summer vacations. Tell him, Mr. Editor, that we have mountains, lakes and forests grander than they have in Europe. Tell him that if he does this he will find that the American people will patronize him, and perhaps you can induce him to give this country the benefit of his thirty years' experience. Hopefully, Yours, KNIGHT TEMPLAR.

THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

Deputy Hanbury and His Gang in Trouble.

They Defy the United States Bankrupt Law and Seize Property—A Deputy Marshal Assaulted—Indictments Asked For.

The proceedings of Sheriff BRENNAN will probably soon meet their deserts, if the United States Grand Jury take action on certain facts to be laid before them in a few days. Deputy Sheriff HANBURY, whose nefarious operations in bronze clocks, stationery and black-walnut chairs at HELMBOLD'S drug-store, cuts a prominent figure in these proposed proceedings, and may find himself in trouble. The facts of the case are simply these:

About two weeks ago, Deputy HANBURY proceeded to the store of ALFRED E. LAGRAVE, a bankrupt, in Broome-street, near Broadway, being accompanied on his errand by eighteen or twenty men attached to the Sheriff's office. HANBURY and his satellites press demanded of LAWRENCE O'BRIEN, acting as a keeper for the United States Marshal, that he surrender a large quantity of furniture, which was in the store. The demand of HANBURY was made on the ground that he held a writ of replevin against the furniture. O'BRIEN, knowing that he had been placed in possession of all the goods in LAGRAVE'S store, by virtue of a warrant of bankruptcy, issued by Judge BLATCHFORD, of the United States Court, refused to accede to the impudent demand of HANBURY, quietly stating that he was holding the furniture by order of United States Marshal SHARPS.

HANBURY, being unaccustomed to have his will thwarted or defied, became so enraged at Deputy Marshal O'BRIEN that he suddenly produced a revolver and threatened to shoot his opponent. Whether HANBURY'S natural cowardice asserted itself, or a grain of common sense lingered in his brain, is not known; but he failed to shoot anybody, though he and his ruffianly gang did succeed in severely beating Mr. O'BRIEN, knocking him down and bruising his face in a shocking manner. Having rendered the Deputy Marshal incapable of further resistance, Sheriff HANBURY ordered his followers to seize the furniture and remove it to the auction room kept by Sheriff BRENNAN. This order was obeyed with alacrity, and the furniture was soon carried off. A portion of it is said to have been the property of CONRAD BOLLER, a name that figures prominently in the Ring frauds.

While HANBURY was thus overriding the law by violence and intimidation, a citizen noticed that one of the ruffians coolly appropriated a box of artificial flowers, which was not mentioned in the worthless writ held by HANBURY, thus constituting the act a case of larceny.

Marshal SHARPS has taken the necessary affidavits containing the above facts in a detailed form, and now proposes to lay them before Judge BLATCHFORD some day this week, on a motion to have HANBURY and his associates punished for contempt of Court, in resisting the warrant of bankruptcy. Facts will also be laid before the United States Grand Jury during their session, asking for HANBURY'S indictment for the murderous assault made by him upon Deputy Marshal O'BRIEN. If the Grand Jury find a true bill, Mr. HANBURY'S usefulness to Sheriff BRENNAN may suddenly terminate, and he be prevented from removing furniture in a felonious manner.

A rumor was current on Saturday that the two dozen chairs stolen from HELMBOLD'S store, as stated in the TIMES, are now finding their way back to BRENNAN'S store-house, and that an effort will be made to show that they were duly sold. At the proper time we will show who received the chairs from HANBURY when he stole them.

THE LABOR REFORMERS.

A New Convention the Result of Judge Davis' Declination—Possible Action—Wendell Phillips a Candidate—Why Judge Davis' Letter Came so Late.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BOSTON, Sunday, June 30, 1872.

The President of the Labor Reformers' National Convention, held in Columbus last Winter, Mr. EDWIN M. CHAMBERLIN, of this city, having at last received something official from Judge DAVIS, their nominee for the Presidency, and that something being a declination of the nomination, proposes to call the delegates and "all others of the Labor Reform Party" to assemble in New-York City on the 30th of July, and immediately after the party Executive Committees of the different States will issue substituting calls, stating the object of the new Convention to be the consideration of the question of making new Presidential nominations. Concerning this move, and the lateness of Judge DAVIS' recognition of his nomination, the Daily Advertiser of to-morrow will contain the following:

"What the result of this gathering will be is not now at entire perfectly clear, but it is quite apparent that a portion of the old opposition party for and humble critic of mankind, WENDELL PHILLIPS, will zealously endeavor to make it his nomination. He is ready, willing, and it is said anxious, to receive and accept, and if he has enhances will not be both to take the stump, thus imparting a new interest to the already unusually promising Presidential campaign. It is barely possible, however, that no nomination will be made, the party proving disheartened by its self experience, and that a place in politics will be sustained by officially 'indorsing' Mr. DEMARTY, though he is by no means the man the Labor Reformers of this country would choose as their champion. * * * * * * * * * Judge DAVIS was not formally notified of his nomination at Columbus until a week from last Saturday, the 22d inst. Why he was not earlier informed Mr. CHAMBERLIN tells, and in so telling contributes a short though entertaining chapter to the political history of the year. The Committee appointed to notify him, and Governor PARKER, the nominee for Vice-President, consisted of WALLACE P. GROOM, editor of the Memphis Journal, New-York; A. M. PUTNEY, Judge DAVIS' backer in the Convention; A. C. CHESNEY, of Chicago; HORACE H. DAY, of New-York, and Mr. CHAMBERLIN. On receiving of his office, Mr. CHAMBERLIN requested Mr. GROOM to prepare and forward the official letters of notification, and with the understanding that this was to be done within the next week, left for his home in Boston. Soon after Mr. CHAMBERLIN received a telegraphic dispatch from Mr. GROOM, stating the effect that the Committee had decided to temporarily postpone notification, and that he would write him soon. Not receiving the promised explanation soon, Mr. CHAMBERLIN wrote to Mr. GROOM, again requesting that the duty for which the Committee had been appointed be done, and that if possible a reason for the delay be obtained. Meanwhile that they would run, at any event. To this GROOM responded that the Committee had concluded to indefinitely postpone notification; that he had conversed with different members of the Labor Party, and this course had been agreed upon as the proper one to pursue. Then Mr. CHAMBERLIN wrote that the Committee had no business to postpone, that it was appointed and distinctly ordered to notify, not to consider the feasibility of notifying, and once more requested Mr. GROOM to do his duty. But GROOM did not each time and consequently on Saturday, the 3d, Mr. CHAMBERLIN, President of the Convention and member of the Committee to notify, did it for him. It is pretty well understood that the action of the Committee was influenced by Judge DAVIS' fusionism, and with his acquiescence; that he did not want to be notified until the Cincinnati Convention, and then, as we have seen how that went until it was evident how the Democrats were going at Baltimore. Two or three times he was unofficially notified, but to all these he refused to reply; once HUGH GAMERON wrote to one of the notifiers that the Judge could pay no attention formally to such communications."

Mr. CHAMBERLIN says that if the Labor Reformers indorse GREELEY as New-York it will be not because of a belief in his promises that, if elected, he will do something for the laboring classes, but for policy. He is not so all popular with the laboring classes nor their leaders, and if he is nominated it will be by a spurious and valueless act. If the Convention takes him up, it is the opinion of many that a good share of the party will not vote for him; many will vote for GRANT, and a few will not vote at all.

Talk about the Fall State campaign is already beginning. It is said that the Labor Reformers, who were so completely hoodwinked last Fall by Gen. BUTLER, are ready to forget their grievance if he will engage the one upon as a candidate for the Gubernatorial chair, and some of their leaders are urging this upon him. The Boston report has it, however, that he is hardly ready to think it best to run in the Fall, the Presidential campaign being sufficient at this out being yet, when, and the issues in this State to keep a well-behaved Governor, such as WASBURN undoubtedly is, in office for two years at least being another, but that the Fall ticket office this he will be ready and prepared. BUTLER himself, to all outside inquiries, says nothing about his intentions, but few people believe what they may; consequently ready in office are miserably uneasy. There is also in rapid circulation another report, which is to the effect that a combination is already forming with Dr. LORING for Governor, but this is not at once credited, the genial doctor's sanctimity for Washington being generally known.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Gen. Howard's Experience Among the Indians—Southern Claims—The Appropriations—Another Great Reduction in the Debt—Miscellaneous.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Gen. O. O. HOWARD today gave an account to a large audience in Lincoln Hall of his recent visit to the Indians in Arizona. The Indian Chief whom he brought here with him occupied places on the platform. The General's recent experience was pleasantly said, and evidenced much interest. He found that the Indians were led to commit depredations by instincts rather than by design or reason. He had attempted to teach them that it was wrong, and to awaken in them a religious idea. He found them teachable and desiring to learn. At Camp Grant there were 1,200 Indians disposed to learn, and he found but little difficulty in instructing them. Several captured children that had been left there were to remain and be taught. That whole country was in need of schools. He believed that by giving the Indians education war would be avoided. Among the Indians on the White Mountain Reservation, he found dissatisfaction prevailing, but there had been no hostilities. The General made a strong appeal for assistance in civilizing the wild tribes. After Gen. HOWARD had concluded, some of the Indians made brief speeches, expressing pleasure at their visit to the white man's country.

SOUTHERN CLAIMS.

All the Southern Claims Commission, except Judge ALDIS, of Vermont, have left the city for the Summer. He will remain until after the Fourth of July. The Commissioners while absent will not discontinue their labors. They have 2,000 cases in which testimony has been taken by Commissioners, which they are to examine and prepare reports on to transmit to Congress. This requires an immense amount of labor, and it is doubtful if all can be examined before Congress meets. The Commission expires by law March 3 next. It is estimated that at that time there will be 20,000 cases filed before the Commission, either unheard or unacted on, involving an amount of work which cannot be disposed of in less than three or four years, perhaps; certainly not in less than two. In view of the judicious action and diligent, efficient work of the Commission during its past history, its continuance will be certainly effected.

THE APPROPRIATIONS.

The new fiscal year begins to-morrow, when the appropriations made last session will become available. The appropriations were cut down by Congress in many instances far below the estimates of the Departments, but the various officers will accept this action of the committee of the legislative branch as its view of what ought to be expended for the year, and the Deficiency bill to which Congress in December will be made as small as possible.

THE PUBLIC DEBT.

It is understood the debt statement to be issued to-morrow will show a great reduction for the month of the public debt.

SMALL-POX BECOMING EPIDEMIC.

The small-pox is assuming an epidemic form in this city, and is creating much excitement. Certain localities in the eastern and southern portions of the city are unsafe to visit. The Board of Health is doing much to prevent its spread, and have done much to keep it within the limits in which it is yet restrained. One of the members of the Board has been in Baltimore to make an investigation there of the ravages of the disease and the means taken to prevention and cure, and brings back the report that it is much more prevalent there than is generally believed, and that a much larger number of deaths occur than is announced in the papers of that city. This will be news not cheerful to the delegates to the coming Convention.

PERSONAL.

Senator CARPENTER is in the city. He arrived yesterday. Senator CASSERLY will remain here till after the Baltimore Convention. Gen. WALKER, Indian Commissioner, is in New-York, to-night to be absent for a day or two only.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

THE MARINE CORPS.

The following changes of station have recently been made among the officers of the Marine Corps: Capt. HENRY A. BARTLETT, detached from the receiving-ship Vermont, at New-York, and ordered to the command of the Marine Rendezvous, New-York; Capt. P. R. FERRALL, detached from the Naval Academy and ordered to Portsmouth, N. H.; Lieut. CARLISLE P. PORTER transferred from the Plymouth to the Juniata, homeward bound from Europe; Lieut. E. L. MAIN detailed to the temporary command of the State-street rendezvous, New-York; Lieut. HENRY C. COCHRANE detached from the Philadelphia Navy yard, and ordered to establish a marine rendezvous in Paterson, N. J.; Lieut. C. F. WILLIAMS detached from the Washington Navy-yard, and ordered to establish a marine rendezvous in Eastern Pennsylvania; Lieut. A. E. O'BRIEN detached from head-quarters to open a rendezvous at Wilkesbarre, Penn. Lieut. WM. WALLACE detached from Washington to open a rendezvous in Albany, N. Y.; Lieut. SEAWARD from the Vermont, to command the guard of the Brooklyn.

A BANROD FIRED INTO A MAN'S HEAD.

During the performance of a farce at the Metropolitan Theatre, last night, CHARLEY BROWN, a banjo-player, shot a man named KEEGAN, a song and dance man. It was supposed the musket which BROWN discharged at KEEGAN contained only powder, yet the ramrod had been carelessly left in the musket. The rod entered KEGAN'S head, inflicting a dangerous wound. The parties were the best of friends. The shooting was purely accidental.

SPIRITS AND DISTILLERIES.

It appears from an official statement just prepared at the Office of Internal Revenue, that on the 1st of May the quantity of spirits in bond was 8,673,417 gallons; the number of distilleries running June 29 was 215; daily capacity, 227,622 gallons. The decrease in the number of distilleries since June 1, 1871, was 90, and in the capacity of those in operation is 6,000 gallons. The decrease pertains to small establishments. The increase of production is accounted for from the fact that the tax is now sixty-one cents, whereas on and after the 1st of August, by the new law, it will be seventy cents. It is probable, however, from information received, that there will be a still further increase of manufacture, so as to fill the bonded warehouses between now and the 1st of August.

GOLD SALES AND BOND PURCHASES.

The Acting Secretary of the Treasury has directed the Assistant Treasurer at New-York to purchase $1,000,000 bonds 6s each Wednesday, and sell $1,000,000 of gold on each Thursday, during the month of July.

REDEMPTION OF THREE PER CENTS.

The Acting Secretary of the Treasurer has called in $1,250,000 of Three per Cent. temporary loan certificates, dated from Aug. 1 to Sept. 1, 1861, as follows: $5,000 each of all the outstanding numbers between 2,807 and 3,806 inclusive, and $10,000 each of all outstanding numbers between 4,351 and 4,806 inclusive. Interest will cease Aug. 31, 1872, on the above certificates.

A CONNECTICUT LOCK WITH THE REVOLUTION BROKEN.

Mrs. MARY CHASE BARNEY, daughter of the late Judge SAMUEL CHASE, of Maryland, one of the signers of the Declaration of American Independence, died here today in her eighty-eighth year. She was the widow of a son of Commodore BARNEY. It was recently ascertained that Mrs. BARNEY and one other lady were the only surviving daughters of any of the signers of the Declaration.

Death of Mill Hands in Williamsport, Penn.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., June 30.—The working men on the lumber mills in this city mostlast evening in about the ten-hour system, having previously worked from twelve to thirteen hours. The mill-owners had been waited on, and treated the demand for ten hours with contempt. It is stated that the strikers will meet at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, form in procession, and move to various points, inviting workmen to fall in line. There are about 1,000 men in the movement, and much feeling prevails. The men are orderly. The President and Secretary of the State Union have issued a card asking working men not to come to Williamsport, as the mill hands are on a strike for the ten-hour system.

PENNSYLVANIA JUSTICE.

Conviction of an Ex-Member of the Legislature for Revenue Frauds.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., June 30.—DANIEL LEIBERT, formerly a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature for Luzerne County, was yesterday convicted on eight charges of fraud against the Internal Revenue Department. He was tried in the United States District Court at this place, being defended by Judge MAYNARD, assisted by Messrs. FRANK STEWART, PAULEN and EDWARDS. United States Attorney SHORTS conducted the prosecution in an able and thorough manner, and his argument while summing up the case for the jury is considered the most brilliant forensic effort ever made in this section. The proofs against LEIBERT were complete, and his friends are much disheartened at the exposures made during the trial. He will probably be sentenced to-morrow or next day.

CUBA.

Expected Landing of the Expedition in the Summer.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Cuban sympathizers profess to have news of the successful landing on the island of the expedition which was said some time since to have been taken out on the Lanada, under command of Gen. RYAN.

THE SAVAGES.

The Last Indian Outrage—Supposed Killing of Gen. McKenzie and Other Officers not Confirmed.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The report published yesterday that Gen. MCKENZIE, Lieuts. SMITH and TYLER were surprised and killed by Indians between Fort Belknap and Seckboro, Texas, is not believed at the War Department, and no information of such disaster has been received by the Department, although telegraphic communication is still open with Gen. AUGUR.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape of the Passengers of a Wrecked Train in Vermont.

RUTLAND, Vt., June 30.—The night express train over the Rutland division of the Vermont Central Railway, due in Rutland at about midnight, met last night with a serious accident just north of Vergennes. While passing over a narrow culvert at the rate of about thirty miles per hour the engineer felt a jar. The locomotive, however, passed on safely, but the culvert had passed than the culvert fell in, making a most complete wreck of the train, consisting of a baggage car, New-York coach and sleeping car, and Boston coach and sleeping car. Strange to say but one person, a brakeman, was seriously injured, although all of the passengers were badly shaken up. It seems almost a miracle that many were not killed.

SPAIN.

Fourth of July Receptions at the American Legation, Madrid—Relations to Cuba.

MADRID, June 30.—Gen. SICKLES gives a grand reception at the American Legation on the Fourth of July.

The Spanish Government has received advices pronouncing false the reports of the landing of filibustering expeditions in the Island of Cuba.

A decree is promulgated in the Gaceta accepting the resignation of Count VALMESEDA, Captain-General of Cuba, and appointing Gen. CABALLO to fill the place provisionally.

The decree also removes Gen. PULIMO, Captain-General of Porto Rico, and appoints SIMON LAFORBA his successor.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1—1 A. M.—The barometer continues highest over the Southern States; probably lowest over the north west; areas of rain have prevailed along the Gulf and South Atlantic Coasts and north and west of the Ohio Valley; clear and partially cloudy weather is now prevailing over the Southern States, with light to fresh winds, and over the Middle and New-England States, with light to fresh south-westerly to north-westerly winds.

PROBABILITIES.

Clear and partially cloudy weather for the Southern, Middle, and New-England States with light winds, followed by partly cloudy weather; areas of rain and fresh to brisk southerly to south-westerly winds north-west of the Ohio Valley, and possibly extend over the lower lake region.

Fatal Accidents in Various Localities—Supposed Death by Lightning.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 30.—WM. H. COOLEY, a wood-carver, thirty-five years old, was drowned this afternoon, while bathing in the Connecticut. WM. W. CUMMINGS, a comrade, while trying to resuscitate him, was sunstruck, and his recovery is very doubtful.

JOHN COFFAY, a Boston and Albany Railroad trackman, was accidentally run over and killed by a train at Middletown today, his head being completely severed from his body.

NEW-ORLEANS, June 30.—Three boys, two white and one colored, aged about twelve years, were found dead on Bayou St. John. It is supposed they were killed this afternoon by lightning. An unknown female, aged about twenty, was struck by lightning this afternoon, in Greenville, and instantly killed.

Fourth of July Rowing Events in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 30.—The Fourth of July regatta in this city promises to be the finest ever held in western waters. There have been a large number of entries for the four-oared races and ten entries for the single-scull race; among them are Billy Sharp, of Pittsburg; Dick Tinning, Thomas Louden, Robert Beery and James Douglass, of Toronto; and Charles T. Smith, of Rochester. Great enthusiasm prevails.

GOV. OGLESBY.

Great Speech of the Eloquent Illinoisan at St. Louis.

Gen. Grant in the Early Days of the War—The Tammany Candidate Review—The Liberal Democratic Plot.

The following are the principal points of the speech made by Gov. OGLESBY at St. Louis:

FIRST MEETING WITH GEN. GRANT.

At one time I was in command of six regiments of infantry and some cavalry and artillery in Missouri. We had been there three months when Gen. GRANT came in one morning accompanied by a Lieutenant, who introduced him to me as I sat there dressed as a Colonel's uniform, commanding the country all around. I didn't know where my jurisdiction began or where it ended. Gen. GRANT walked in, and, as I said, was introduced to me. I was very busy in the morning getting off some orders. There wasn't any enemy within fifty miles of us that we knew anything about, and JEFF. THOMPSON didn't care whether we came home or did his work, and whether he came to see us. [Laughter.] The General walked back and took a seat on my right, but I did not see the name right. He was dressed so poorly, so far as I know, he might be a recruit. [Laughter.] He sat down for a moment, when Capt. LUCO said: "Colonel, I think you don't understand me." "No, I think not," say I. Says he, "This is Gen. GRANT." I turned around in considerable consternation, and said, "My God, is this Gen. GRANT?" [Cheers and laughter.] By the time I had got over my excitement and felt in a mood to recognize him, he had written an order putting a man out of that department and putting himself in. [Laughter and cheers.] I went back to my regiment, and he went on commanding the troops all gathered around there from every quarter.

GRANT'S COUNCIL OF WAR.

We were going to take Fort Donelson, fourteen miles away, so Gen. GRANT opened his council of war and invited us all in. We had some ice-water, which was very desirable, [laughter,] and he gave us a cigar and we sat down fifteen or twenty minutes, and not a word was said by anybody. [Laughter.] Gen. GRANT sat there a while, with one leg over the other, looking as pleasant as anybody I ever saw, right in the midst of the enemy, who were only fourteen miles away, while all hearts were filled with trepidation; for we felt that the destinies of the great nation were upon our shoulders, and it was a pretty alarming time. After a while the General got up, walked out on the guard, and on returning asked us if we had anything to say. We told him we had not. We then asked the General if he had anything to say, and he told us he had not, and so the council of war broke up, and that was the first one and the last one I ever attended. [Laughter.] In about an hour after we returned to our camp an order came to start at 4 o'clock that afternoon toward Donelson, and be sure to be up next morning at daylight, and be there so as to move immediately on the enemy's works. We started off, rejoicing now that we were going to have a fight, so on we marched, and it was not long before we got to Donelson, and it was not long before Gen. FORREST came out with 800 cavalry outside of the earthworks and opened the ball. The firing commenced, and in about fifteen minutes about fifty men were killed or wounded. Then we began skirmishing and marching around Dover toward the Cumberland River, and after we got through you all remember it was a magnificent victory—twelve thousand volunteer troops captured behind the rifle-pits of Fort Donelson—twelve thousand as brave men as ever bore arms against the United States Government. [Cheers.] From that time until the end of the War, you know his career was one of grand and continued successes.

VOTES FOR GREELEY.

We shall have Mr. GREELEY for a while, and some of us encouraging sensations. We shall have him before the people for some of our citizens to vote for. So far as I know, he is a very good old man. I come not here to-night to assail his private character. He has been a future by good American citizen. He has some notions about the kind of bread a man should eat, and when he was in Congress, I was more pleased with me. [Laughter.] I would rather he would leave the American people to drink what they prefer and to eat what they like best, without injecting into them his fearful notions about drink and rations. [Laughter.] And I think it would be a very good thing if GREELEY would dismiss these very foolish notions from his mind, and it would be a very good thing if the American people will tell HORACE GREELEY that it is not necessary at all for him to go to Washington to inaugurate this system of diet and drink for the American people. [Laughter.] Now, for all American citizens who want to vote for GREELEY, and do so stubbornly as a mere prank or a little sort of amusement for the hour—you gentlemen who desire to fool away your votes and thus place your mark of condemnation on Gen. GRANT and give yourself in history as having voted against that man—for you will stand recorded in the political history of the country as having voted against him if you should do so—to such of my American friends as desire to do so, I say go headlong and do it. [Cheers.] I, as a friend, advise you not to do so, and particularly in our own State.

THE LIBERAL-DEMOCRATIC PLOT.

Gen. SCHURZ is advertised to go to Springfield on next Wednesday and speak to our State, together with Gov. BROWN, Judge TRUMBULL, Gov. PALMER and Gov. KOERNER. They are all going to rush into the peaceful State of Illinois and make a combined attack upon me. I have been nominated by the Republicans for Governor of the State, and I intend to make a plain and open contest, and a bold one. [Cheers.] Now you will see next Wednesday, in the Capitol of Illinois, in the shadow of ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S monument, in the shadow of liberty lies, right close by the place where his monument stands erected to his memory, Gov. BROWN and Judge TRUMBULL and Gov. KOERNER and CARL SCHURZ, going to meet together and plot treason against the memory of ABRAHAM LINCOLN and the Republican Party. [Cheers.] I tell you I believe in doing it openly and candidly with these gentlemen. They say that they are Republicans. Gentlemen, if you are Republicans, why don't you vote the Republican ticket? The Republican Party of the United States has nominated Gen. GRANT; it has nominated HENRY WILSON in the second place—in the second place—and bowing to that rule which all men of honor recognize, Gen. GRANT is our standard-bearer to-day. He stands upon our platform of eighteen resolutions, every resolution plain and straightforward, open and manly—a declaration of principles that I, and no man will be ashamed of. I say to those men who are going to make this coalition—and let my voice reach from Cairo to Chicago, and let it go all over the State of Illinois that I charge it upon them there—that they are going to make a coalition with the Democrats, of whom two years ago every one of them were charged as traitors to their country. [Cheers.] Gen. SCHURZ, Gov. PALMER and Gov. KOERNER and Gov. BROWN and Gen. SCHURZ, up to within the last three years, made it their business to travel over these Western States and charge upon those Democrats that they were Copperheads, that they were sympathizers with the South, that they were dangerous men, and unfit to be trusted with the political rights of a free people. And now I charge it upon these same men that they are going to Springfield, under the shadow of ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S monument, to make a coalition with these men to defeat me for Governor, and to defeat Gen. GRANT for President. But I tell you, my countrymen, I will beat them from 50,000 to 100,000 votes. [Great cheers.] Every poor old soldier in Illinois, every old soldier hobbling throughout the Prairie State on a crutch, every one with a broken arm, every one with an honorable scar upon him, every one who lost his strength, every old and young man who bore arms in defense of our country, for the salvation of the Union, under orders of Gen. GRANT, are under a commission from Illinois. Every soldier in the State, and the mother of every dead boy, the father of every dead son, and all those old soldier boys will march again to the front under the patriotic music, under the patriotic arm and under the old flag of liberty, we will all march together to the ballot-box and vote for their old soldier and for their old friend. ["Good!" Cheers.] And Missouri, too, that has for a year or two no longer been speaking in a little too freely, [laughter,] Missouri, that has been tampering with edged-tools; Missouri, that has listened to the oily words of CARL SCHURZ and Gov. BROWN two years ago, and has landed itself into troubles—but, if I mistake not the temper of this vast audience to-night, that is growing larger and larger, I think at last the voice of St. Louis can reach to the circumference of it—unless I mistake the temper of this vast audience to-night, Missouri will right herself again, and that twenty and thirty thousand that Gov. BROWN is claiming, and the friends of HORACE GREELEY are claiming in Missouri, I do really believe will vanish and fly away between now and the 5th day of November next. [Cheers.] No, Sir, I believe Missouri, with all her strength and power and beauty, growing as a young State has scarcely ever grown before; full of patriotic men; full of intelligent men, with all her grand prospects in the future, I believe Missouri will rise up and defend herself as she did defend herself and so nobly bore herself all through the crisis of our terrible war. [Cheers.] You are growing, gentlemen, under the policy of this Republican Party—your city grows, your State grows, and your people grow in wealth, comfort and prosperity; the laboring man everywhere over this broad State has prospered, and there is a bright hope before him; he lives in a country with law, with settled institutions, blest with prosperity such as no nation has had before—a prosperity that has come upon you as it has come upon us in Illinois under the wise management and judicious laws of this Republican Party, who I think have to consider the interests of this great nation. Our opponents complain of our tariff; they say it is burdensome. These gentlemen went to Cincinnati to put a free trade plank in their platform, and when they did it Gentlemen of Cincinnati had the moral courage to do it; they backed out of it, and they are now struggling before the country advocating nothing, absolutely nothing. Upon financial questions they have been cancelling the revenue; they have been cancelling national banks; they have assailed the national currency and national credit, and all of those great men and measures of the Republican Party, but they haven't the moral courage to do this. They know that we are right, and they sneak off under the pretense of lowering civil service reform and amnesty [cheers;] and while they are dabbling in this question at Cincinnati, about amnesty, the Republican Party that inaugurated it four years ago—the Republican Party, that saved the nation, and were always anxious to do anything to amnesty the rebels, who were always anxious to forgive them, and who always stood ready to take them back into the Union—while they were haggling about this question at Cincinnati the Republican Congress went to work and amnestied every man who bore arms against the Government, excepting about one hundred bitter, heavy-headed old traitors, whom we will not forgive for some time to come. [Cheers.] Now, there is Gov. BROWN, and Judge TRUMBULL, and HORACE GREELEY are impatient because we do not remove the last restriction off of JEFF. DAVIS. [Cheers.] There is only a dozen or two left. JEFF. DAVIS tells your Gov. BROWN and I speak always respectfully of Gov. BROWN, for I have no reason to speak otherwise of him—JEFF. DAVIS tells Gov. BROWN and Gen. SCHURZ, and he tells you and me and HORACE GREELEY that he will not accept anything that we offer him. He says, I accept nothing; I stand where I stood before, justifying the rebellion; I stand where I stood to-day. ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS and Senator TOOMBS, once a United States Senator, says the same. Every leading important rebel who is not pardoned, stands today telling you in your face that they will not accept your mercy. They justify the rebellion, and I say it would be unwise in the American people to force this amnesty upon these men, and yet Gen. SCHURZ and Gov. BROWN want this amnesty extended to JEFF. DAVIS. What for? He can vote already. He can vote and kill your vote now; and he will kill it, too, at the next election. But they say, we want JEFF. DAVIS and Gen. SCHURZ extended elected to the United States Senate. They want them back in Congress again. Aye, but you Liberal Republicans are upon that platform. You say you are for unconditional and universal and immediate amnesty. The Republican Party says, we are for universal amnesty for all who are willing to come back and love this country and obey its laws. They don't even ask them to love their country, but they say, if you will only come back and obey the laws and give up your treason, we will forgive you entirely. JEFF. DAVIS refuses to do this, and you, you Liberal Republicans, I don't think you are conscious of it; and you Democrats, I am sorry if you are conscious of it, you are taking these positions, which is the only plank you have got in your platform, except civil service, that JEFF. DAVIS has a right to be elected President of the United States, and you want to put him in a position where the people can vote for him. Mr. GREELEY and we hadn't granted amnesty at all. I would ask why? He said because, though we give the rebels the right to vote and hold office, we don't give them the right to vote for JEFF. DAVIS if they wanted to vote for him. This is the reason, but I don't think Gen. GREELEY or BROWN or SCHURZ will be able to make anybody mad in this country over amnesty.

THE GREELEY DISGUISE.

Real Meaning of the Democratic Possum Policy—Speech of Senator Morton.

Senator MORTON made a brief and excellent speech at the great Republican ratification meeting in Indianapolis, on Saturday evening, July 22. We quote:

My friend, Mr. HENDRICKS, said in his speech in the Convention here: "We have this day turned our backs upon the past. We now stand in the present, and we look forward to the great future. The past is gone." I ask you very briefly, have the Democrats made a mere handful—can leaven the whole Democratic Party? Not a bit of it. They will be dissolved like flies in vinegar. Instead of the Democracy coming to them, they will go to the Democracy. A renegade Republican elected by Democratic votes, knowing that he owes his office to them, surrounded by Democrats in his Cabinet, and socially and politically in his daily goings in and out—I care not what may have been his original purpose—human nature is malleable, and that man would inevitably come under Democratic influence and become one of them. Therefore, as I before remarked, I would in a friendly way say to those who take a man of their own party, a consistent Democrat of high character, rather than a renegade Republican who is abhorrent to office, and who will sell himself out for their votes.

The Republican Party will go forward as it has done before, we have our candidates in the field; our principles are inscribed upon our banners; they are side by side with our victories, civil and military, for the last ten years; the brightest political record in this or any other country; and, gentlemen, we shall triumph. [Applause.] I have no doubt at it. [Great applause.] I believe we are destined to obtain a greater Republican triumph than we have yet had; our policy conceded, our principles not now denied, our enemies compelled to sail under false colors, and the prosperity of the nation speaking in thunder tones for us in every State of the Union, we have never had such prospects for victory. It makes no difference to us whether the Democratic Party shall sail under its old colors or under false colors, the people understand that after all this fight is substantially between the Republican Party and the old Democratic Party. It is between Democratic principles and Republican principles, but there is this change from what has taken place in the past—two, four, eight years ago the Democratic Party went to battle under their own colors, professing their own principles. Now they dare not do it. I therefore exhort patriotic men of all parties to stand fast by the Republican cause. If you see a business man you cannot afford to have this policy changed; if you are a incoring man you cannot afford to have this policy changed. You want this country to go on substantially as it is now going. The people understand their own interests, and I believe they will stand by Gen. GRANT. [Immense applause.]

Destination by Ex-Gov. Jenkins, of Georgia.

Ex-Gov. C. J. JENKINS, of Georgia, has declined to be a candidate before the Democratic State Convention for nomination either for Governor or to a seat on the bench of the Supreme Court of the State. He says:

"Sincerely grateful to my fellow-citizens for the bestowal of each in the past, I neither aspire to nor can consent to accept either in the future. From my experience in the past, I do not believe I have remaining sufficient strength to endure the mental strain and the physical earnest incident to each. Allow me to add that, in my opinion, the vacancies soon to occur—one in the Executive and the other in the Supreme Judicial Department—would be well filled by the reappointment of the present incumbents severally. Such, as a citizen of Georgia, is my earnest desire."

YALE ALUMNI.

Organization of an Association in Buffalo.

From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser, June 28.

In response to the published invitation addressed to the Alumni of Yale residing in Buffalo, quite a number of Yalensians met at the house of one of the graduates in this city last evening. Among those present were Rev. Dr. INGERSOLL, of the Class of '31; Hon. JAMES O. PUTNAM, of '39; M. B. MOORE, Esq., of '48; Rev. ALBERT BIGELOW, of '53; Rev. REXFORD N. WHITE, of '54; Rev. WOLCOTT CALLEN, of '56, and a number of younger graduates. An hour or more was very pleasantly passed in talking over old Yale times. It was very evident that the same zeal for Alma Mater inspires the Buffalo Yale men as inspires the sons of the glorious old mother everywhere.

The meeting finally organized by the election of Dr. INGERSOLL as Chairman, and Mr. WM. H. FOSTER as Secretary. It was then stated that the direct object of the meeting was to form a Yale Alumni Association in this city, in order that the graduates of Buffalo and this part of the State might have an opportunity to meet at least once a year in social reunion, and to keep up an organization similar to those that have been successfully formed in other cities.

It was unanimously voted to form such an Association, and a committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and report at as early a date as practicable. This was intrusted to Rev. Dr. INGERSOLL, Hon. JAMES O. PUTNAM, Esq., M. B. MOORE, Esq., and Mr. WM. H. FOSTER. This Committee will consult at once, and soon call another meeting, at which rules for permanent organization will be presented, and officers of the Association will be elected. It is earnestly hoped that this matter will enlist the cordial co-operation of all of the Buffalo Yale Alumni. When the next meeting is called it is understood that the invitation applies not only to those who graduated at Yale, but to all who have at any time been connected with the venerable institution, whether in the academical or other departments. There are a number of Yale Alumni in Buffalo. Upon comparing notes last evening it was ascertained that at least fifty Yalensians could be mustered. It is to be hoped that they will be prepared to turn out in full force at the next call.

Evil Results of Sensational Literature—A Citizen of Brooklyn in Search of His Son.

From the Hartford Post, June 28.

An elderly gentleman from Brooklyn, N. Y., has been traversing this State for several days in search of his son, who recently ran away from home. It seems that some time ago, the lad, who is about seventeen years old, formed an intimate friendship with another boy of about his own age. The two boys were together a great portion of the time, and got to reading novels and sensational newspaper stories about boys going off and living on their own "hook," and doing great things, such as hardly ever happen except in stories. The reading of this trashy literature led the boy, who is now missing, to leave his home, where he was well treated, without letting his father know anything about it. When

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange on Saturday, June 29, by order of the Supreme Court, in foreclosure, under the direction of GUYOND H. HART, Esq., referee, the following sales were made by JAMES M. MILLER: Three-story and basement brick house and lot, situate on the north side of East Seventy-sixth-street, 185.4 feet east of Third-avenue; sold to PHILIP SCHNEER for $6,000. Similar house and lot adjoining, sold to same buyer for $5,100, and similar house and lot adjoining, sold to VALENTINE SPIRS for $6,350. The lots are in size, each 16.8 by 102.2, and the houses are as yet unfinished. The property sold cheap. In addition to the above, under a similar Court order, EDWARD S. DAKIN, Esq., referee, MULLER, WILKINS & Co. sold a house and lot on the north side of East Forty-first-street, 116.8 feet east of Second-avenue, for $4,200, over and above a mortgage of $5,000 and interest, making the total price realized about $9,200. The purchaser of these premises was JOHN FETTERITCH. No other real estate business was transacted. In regard to the suburban sales held on Saturday, viz.: At Richmond Hill, Long Island, by WIKOFF, SANDS & GARRETSON; at Staten Island, by JAMES M. MILLER; and at Somers, Westchester County, by HUGH N. CAMP, particulars of the results in each instance will be given to-morrow.

The country auctions consummated on Friday, June 28, were largely attended and the most satisfactory results were achieved. This was particularly the case with the sale at Bayside, Long Island, conducted by JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., at which property belonging to the Mickle estate was offered, 277 lots in all, in size each 25 by 100, being disposed of for $31,000 in the aggregate. Full details of the transaction, with names of purchasers, will be found below. At the auction held at Rutherford Park, N. J., by A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., although the prices realized were not as high as was expected, nor as the character of the lots offered would warrant, a house and 230 city lots were sold for $73,575, in the total. The best portion of the property was not, however, offered. Details of this sale are also appended. The principal purchasers were the following, mainly from this City: D. Van Winkle, D. T. Arnold, G. R. Vanderveer, T. H. Underhill, G. Davis, E. J. Loye, L. H. Clark, H. Dunnell, Austin Bade, George McKibbe, and F. T. Hewitt. At the auction held at Greenville, Hudson County, N. J., on Wednesday, June 26, by LEWIS E. WOOD, under the direction of the Hudson County Land Improvement Company, we learn that seventeen lots were sold at an average of $600 each, and that after the close of the transaction ten additional lots were disposed of to a party on the ground for $6,000. In regard to the auction held at W. at Bergen, N. J., by J. M. Gibson, on Thursday, June 27, we are also informed that fifty lots were sold at prices varying from $426 to $625 each, while the total of the sale reached the sum of about $22,500.

REVIEW OF LAST WEEK'S BUSINESS.

The most important sale held at the Exchange during the past week was that in charge of MULLER, WILKINS & Co., on Wednesday, June 26, at which fifty-four lots and gores were offered for sale, comprised in the southerly half of the block bounded by the Grand Boulevard, Eleventh-avenue, Seventy-first and Seventy-second-street; a very valuable property formerly belonging to the Harsen estate, and said to have cost the City of New York $300,000. The prices realized, however, were not satisfactory, and after four lots on the Boulevard and eight street lots with gores in the rear had been sold the balance of the realty was withdrawn. The four Boulevard lots brought $29,650, while the street lots, with gores, sold together as one piece, averaged about $6,000 each. The aggregate of the sale, so far as continued, was $153,800. It is hardly probable that any other large auction will be held at the Exchange until the Fall business sets in. The remaining sales of the week were of minor interest, and the total value of City real estate sold at the Exchange for the week ending with Saturday, June 29, amounts to $269,050. The figures for the previous six business days ending with Saturday, June 22, was $155,260.

For suburban auctions during the week the weather has been decidedly unpropitious, for while in the early part the storm in every instance seriously marred attendance (always unfortunate) the excessive heat of Friday and Saturday seriously interfered with business. Not withstanding these drawbacks, however, a very fair general result is shown—a result particularly good for the close of the season, for with the present week business in this class of sales will about begin to be dull. This season has been a remarkably prosperous one, and never before in a corresponding period has as much country real estate been sold, or such universally good prices been realized. The suburban auctions consummated during the past week up to Friday, June 28, have been as follows: Monday, June 24, at Park Ridge, N. J., A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., auctioneers, fifty lots sold for $2,000. Wednesday, June 26, at Greenville, N. J., LEWIS E. WOOD, auctioneer, twenty-seven lots sold for $14,627. Thursday, June 27, at New-Brighton, Staten Island, J. M. PHILLIPS, auctioneer, house and sixty-one lots sold for $37,750. Same day, at Whitestone, Long Island, JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., auctioneer, 277 lots sold for $30,820. Same day, at Manchawkin, N. J., MELLICK BROS., auctioneers, seventy-six plots sold for $17,525. Same day, at West Bergen, N. J., J. M. GIBSON, auctioneer, fifty lots sold for $22,500. Same day, at West Dunnellen, N. J., R. L. WILLIAMS & Co., auctioneers, fifty lots sold for $2,200. Friday, June 28, at Rutherford Park, N. J., MELLICK BROS., auctioneers, house and 230 lots sold for $73,575, and at Bayside, Long Island, JOHNSON, auctioneer, 277 lots sold for $31,000. Total, $231,977. Aggregate for previous week, ending with Saturday, June 22, $400,374.

HOT WEATHER.

A Few Facts About the Present Heated Term.

Terrible Rise in the Thermometer—Hot Streets and Blistering Pavements—Sufferings of the Car-Horses—How the People Bear It—Sun-Strokes.

Heat! How it afflicts humanity. Whether it be from the fierce wrath of furnace flame when the fireman tosses in the fuel till the tongues of fire leap and drive him from his post, or in the tropics, where the sun sends down burning, blinding, scorching rays, that kill both life and vegetation, it is alike terrible. While the mellow air of the Spring season and the gentle rays of the sun, nourish vegetation and infuse new life into animate beings, the Summer solstice parches verdure and weeds out the weakest lives. There is need for those who reside in the close confines of the City to seek cool retreats by the sea-shore, among the mountains, in sequestered localities, where vitiated atmospheres and intense heat do not combine to propagate disease and summon the visits of the sixth destroyer. There are many possessing means and leisure who seek such resorts, and only return when the heated season is past. There are others having little time and less money, who brave the long list of epidemics while remaining at their posts. Still others, having both means and inclination, are unable to go, and roast and simmer in their brick and iron habitations.

Yesterday the sun rose, seemingly, with more vigor and radiance than on the previous day, and soon aroused those who were prone to linger in the realms of dream-land. There was such manifest meaning in the summons of the great orb, that thousands upon thousands hasted to obey their behest long before the usual hour for the greater part of the population of the City was either alive, and on the way to cool resorts, or lounging about, vainly attempting to discover frigidity somewhere in their dwellings. Fat men, with perspiring faces, descended to cellars, and in their cool confines sat in capacious easy-chairs, vainly endeavoring to draw the cork of some bottle whose thick cobwebs and obscure glass denoted the great age of the contents. Lean men and women sat about in very light costumes. Church-goers carefully donned drapery, the greatest recommendation of which was its lightness and immaculate purity, and, spreading umbrellas and parasols, meandered away toward the sanctuary. Pleasure-seekers avoided the street-cars and patronized the steamers which fly unceasingly to and from the noted resorts of the Bay, ocean and rivers. Teutons with stolid faces and phlegmatic temperaments, wiping away moisture with huge handkerchiefs, imbibed lager in the various beer-gardens of the Metropolis, many of them accompanied by their wives. As the thermometer rose the quantity of lager drank increased in a like ratio, and the levee of inebriation expanded correspondingly. Every one seemed to avoid exertion as much as possible, and additional warmth to the atmosphere, and stay fire in Gotham's street during the morning, instead of running toward the conflagration, as is the usual custom, the spirit of curiosity was so quenched that the greater part of the people in the vicinity at the time of the outbreak actually neglected to send Mr. Minister Bigelow, family, chairs sang lauly, and Sunday-school teachers who did not stay away from their posts of duty entirely, in many cases impressed the juvenile mind but very vaguely with notions of duty, and spent more time in discussing the matter of the extraordinary heat than in aiding pupils into obeying the laws of Solomon. The horses attached to the street-cars moved slowly along over the blistering pavement with wet coats and imploring eyes; often unable to withstand such terrible heat, the poor creatures laid down and died, being rolled out of the way as they fell, fresh animals speedily taking their places. A very large number of horses on different lines of the City were lost in this manner, especially from 12 o'clock to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The great animals in the menagerie at Central Park suffered extremely, especially those used to colder climates. Large tanks of water were kept constantly filled, and the hundreds of lions, with lolling tongues and bloodshot eyes, passed away the long and melting day. The elephants, chained to staples on the green, tore up the sod with their trunks, and carpeted their backs with the cool earth, presenting an extremely laughable spectacle. The large ostrich seemed perfectly at home in the separate inclosure, with no shade of tree or house, but stalked around in a way which put to shame the elegantly-dressed ladies looking on. It was in the narrow, winding, closely-built streets, down-town, where the rays of the sun collected and were reflected from the glossy pavement and painted bricks, that the heat was most oppressive and dangerous.

Those who have worked in or visited the fire-room of a steamer, and stood in front of the great furnace, with a blaze within as fuel is added, rendering the vicinity almost unbearable, may form an idea of the experience of the unfortunates whose paths led them down-town yesterday. The avenues, wider and more straight, afforded the very slight breeze prevailing an opportunity of lessening the discomforts of those further up-town. East and North Rivers were dotted with crafts crowded with people seeking to escape the intense heat, and the faster the steamers ran, the better were the passengers pleased. Sailing vessels lay with no wind to fill their canvas, rocking listlessly upon the changing tides, and the crews found it more oppressive than a tandem fire-man's shift. At 8 o'clock in the morning, the thermometer in the shade down-town stood at 78°. At 9 o'clock it stuck at 87°, at 12 o'clock it rose to 92°, and at 3½ P. M. it reached the highest point during the day, 96°. During the remaining portion of the afternoon it oscillated at intervals between 90° and, as there was a dead calm, the hours were terribly oppressive. The churches were thinly attended, although large numbers of citizens thronged the streets, avenues and parks in the evening.

JAMES MCINTYRE, living in a shanty at Seventh-street and First-avenue, was prostrated.

JOHN BAKER, of No. 64 Downing-street, was prostrated and died.

BRIDGET CURRAN died from sunstroke at her residence, One Hundred and Eleventh street, between First and Second avenues.

JAMES KENNALLY, of Sixty-first-street, near Third-avenue, was prostrated in One Hundred and Thirty-fifth-street.

THOMAS GRANT, ten years, of No. 61 Prince-street, was attacked with sunstroke while in Peck-slip, and was taken to the Park Hospital.

FRED. SOLOMON, of No. 270 Rivington-street, was found insensible at the corner of First-avenue and Eighth-street.

JOHN HASTINGS, of Sixty-fifth-street and Third-avenue, employed at the Seventh-avenue Railroad Depot, was prostrated, and taken to the Roosevelt Hospital.

The following record, taken at DICKINSON'S, drug-store, No. 5 Park-row, will show the changes in the temperature during the past twenty-four hours, with the average for the week, as indicated by the thermometer: 3 A. M., 77½°; 6 A. M., 78°; 9 A. M., 89°; 12 M., 89°; 3 P. M., 92°; 6 P. M., 96°; 9 P. M., 85°; 12 M., 80°. Average temperature yesterday, 84¾°. Average temperature for the week, 77°.

TURF NOTES.

Echoes from Monmouth Park—Racing Prospects.

A very important error crept into our report of the Long Branch races yesterday. It was stated that Fadladeen's time in the mile dash was the "fastest ever run in the East, 1:46." It should have read, "In the fastest time ever made on this track, and one of the best races ever run in the East, with the weight," &c. Judge Curyea has made the fastest mile on all Eastern courses, at Saratoga, in 1870, viz., 1:45¾, carrying the same weight as Fadladeen.

The following have filled the of the Monmouth Park Association are to close on the 15th inst., viz.:

The Jersey Derby Sweepstakes, of $25 each, for colts and fillies, foals of 1871, with $1,500 added.

The Monmouth Oaks, a sweepstakes of $20 each, for fillies, foals of 1871.

The Mansion-house Stakes, of $50 each, play or pay, for four-year-old colts and fillies, foals of 1870; $1,000 added; two miles.

The Continental Hotel Stakes, of $50 each for colts and fillies, foals of 1871, $1,000 added; mile and three-quarters.

The West End Hotel Stakes—a renewal of the Monmouth Oaks—a sweepstakes of $50 each, play or pay, for fillies, foals of 1871, $1,000 added; a mile and three-quarters.

The Robbins Stakes of $50 each, play or pay, with $1,000 added, for colts and fillies, foals of 1871; two miles.

It is said that Mr. Morris Bacon was offered $1,000 for the stallion, W. H. Allen, after his win at Mystic Park, Boston, last week, when he made a record of 2:23¾ for himself. Allen has, thus far, proved the fastest stallion in the country, and Jay Gould will have to "come out," if his owner wishes the competition.

There seem to have a number of Arabian stallion in this country, as it appears that Col. Walker Jennifer, of Maryland, who is at present Inspector of Cavalry, in Egypt, recently purchased a beautiful specimen of the Arabian horse from the widow of a Bedouin Arab, and has shipped him to this port. The stallion has been named Ishmael Pacha, and it is the intention of his owner to breed him to the choicest thoroughbred mares in this country.

Mr. Belmont has purchased of the Alexander sale in Kentucky, a full brother to Gray Planet, and gave $1,200 for him. At the same sale Pierce Mason's yearling colt Gray Planet was knocked down to Kinchloe, and was sold for $1,000 before they could see the youngster.

The second day of the Long Branch Races is to-morrow, and the grand race for the Monmouth Cup between Lonerhelter and Harry Bassett will come off. Besides these two, there will probably be Monarchist, Nellie Rasson and Alroy at starters, and many bets have been made that the field will beat the two cracks, now that the charm has been dissolved that made McDaniel invincible. Who knows but that Nelly Rasson will repeat her performance of last year, when she beat the great favorites Stockwood and Express. There are two other great events on the programme for the day. The Hopeful Stakes for two-year olds will be run first, and as there are twenty-six entries a fine field of starters may be expected. Then comes the mile heat race, and probably Tuxmain and Littleton will renew their contest of the Jerome Park Meeting. Uncle John Harper says that McDaniel will not catch him again with a rotten stirrup-strap as experience has made him wise. The sport on this day is very attractive, and we shall not be surprised to see 40,000 people enjoying the course.

The second great trot between Goldsmith Maid, Lucy, Henry and American Girl, takes place at Fleetwood Park on the 9th inst. The purse is $5,000.

ORDINATIONS.

A Priest and Deacon Ordained at the Church of the Transfiguration.

The Church of the Transfiguration, in Twenty-ninth-street, near Fifth-avenue, was crowded yesterday morning, on the occasion of the ordination of a priest and a number of deacons, who graduated in the Union Theological Seminary during the past year. At ½ o'clock services commenced, Right Rev. Bishop POTTER, of New-York, and Right Rev. C. TODD ROBERTSON, of Missouri, assisted by a number of ministers, having previously formed in the vestry, proceeded in solemn procession through the church to the altar, outside of which the graduates took their seats. The regular Episcopal service was then read, and immediately after the ceremony of ordination, according to the Protestant ritual, took place. The graduates being presented in the usual form, and having replied to the various prescribed interrogatories affecting scriptural belief, were invested with the powers and responsibilities of religious deacons. The candidate for the priesthood was then elected to undergo a similar test, having satisfactorily responded, was duly ordained minister. The last mentioned was Mr. WM. F. LEWIS, and the deacons were ALEXNON S. CRAPSEY, Wm. Reed Thomas, Hamilton Lee, Samuel Moran, Frederick Schroeder, Gustave C. Pumeker, Evelyn P. Barton, George E. Cranstoun, R. W. Rhinelander, Jr., and N. W. Wayne. The festival of the Eucharist was then partaken of, and Bishop ROBERTSON delivered a discourse on the duties of Christian ministers, selecting for his text the third chapter and twenty-eighth verse of Nehemiah, "From above the house-gate repaired the priests, every one over against his house." He observed that in entering the threshhold of the high calling of ministers of the Gospel, a few considerations of their duties and responsibilities, the labors inseparable from the ministerial life, the joys and happiness of a faithful service of God, might be appropriate and profitable. He referred to the deep, earnest feelings of mingled solicitude and distrust which he knew animated their breasts at that moment, and it was unnecessary to remind them that throughout their pastoral career their first thought and care should be for the welfare of their own spiritual charge. In ministerial life the ministry is frequently impeded in efficiency for a minister, was greatly impaired by spreading his efforts over many interests, and thus he was able to accomplish little. There was at times, perhaps, a narrowness of sympathy and comprehension in the great work which materially retarded its progress, but the Church put them in a position to be great and very useful men, generous and comprehensive in all their labors. Leaving a collegiate life and the fraternal advice there received, they were thrown into the world, where they would meet many close and intricate questions of religious belief, and by proper reading and study to amount the their purpose to attain such a thorough knowledge of the tenets of Christian faith as to keep their flock clear of the quicksands which now, perhaps, more than at any other period, surrounded the Church. He gave some excellent advice in regard to the selections of subjects for study, and in conclusion admonished them that though merit and intellectual worth might not be at once recognized, it would of necessity be eventually appreciated, and while being the chosen of God, they would be the respected of men. The services concluded with the benediction.

THE BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS.

The Views of Rev. J. Hyatt Smith—Protestantism and Popery Compared.

A sermon was preached last evening at the Lee-avenue Baptist Church, Williamsburg, by Rev. J. HYATT SMITH, who took for his text Deuteronomy, eleventh chapter, eighteenth to twenty-first verse: "Therefore lay up my words," &c. The preacher commenced by stating that he intended to repeat in substance what he had said two Sundays ago concerning the expulsion of the Bible from the schools of Hunter's Point. The decision of the Superintendent of the Hunter's Point Schools that the Bible was not to be read was received by the vicious party with great triumph. My heart was stirred when I heard of this, for I knew that it was an insult to the liberty of our land, for the Bible is the inheritance of all nations. The Bible is the source of all liberty; it gives strength to the body, it is the keystone of all law and is applicable to every condition in life. As you see the Bible is one of our national signs or symbols as the ark was that of the children of Israel. This is a day of Gospel liberty, but Papacy shuts the Bible while Protestantism opens it. A papist could not exist with a free Bible but Protestants open it wide to all. This has been the conflict from the earliest ages. Tyranny has always afraid of light; liberty always dreads darkness. The slaveholder did not dare to put the Bible into the hands of the poor negroes for it would have taught them what liberty meant, and now the priests dare not put "the Book" into the hands of the common people because it would teach them liberty. The Bible is the royal child of our Republic—the book that our fathers read and studied while struggling for their independence—and yet it has been expelled from some of our seats of learning. Why? Because it is a "sectarian book." Have we no other sectarian books in our schools? Have we not histories of England? Surely the Bible is full of teachings and historical records of more importance than any so-called secular book.

The demand of all Protestants today is, that the Book shall remain in our schools. If the law says "no," let us peaceably and kindly stir up the people to enact a better law, and put the Bible back where it ought to be. Let us defend this right as all heards of American citizens. If this one of our liberties is allowed to be trampled to the dust, who can say how long it will be before all our most valued privileges are taken away from us.

Burglars Captured—A Haul by Capt. Byrnes.

On the night of June 25, the Chinese and Japanese goods store of A. VANTINE & Co., No. 816 Broadway, was entered by burglars, and several thousand dollars worth of fine goods were taken. The portion of Broadway in which this store is located is in the Twenty-fifth Precinct, from 8 A. M. until 6 P. M., and in the Fifteenth Precinct from 6 P. M. until 8 A. M., and this transaction made Capt. BYRNES responsible. Nothing after heard in Wooster-street, and while there he saw a stranger approaching with the horses on a walk. The coach appeared to be loaded, and as it passed him the Captain saw a trunk lashed on to the rumble. The coach went down Wooster to Bleecker st., up Bleecker to Greene, and then stopped, the Captain following. He accosted the driver, GEORGE CRAWFORD, of No. 2 Wooster Tenement-house, who did not give satisfactory replies, saying that his passenger was on the way to the Hartford boat, and had stopped to get something to drink. The Captain opened the door of the coach, and found that the vehicle was filled with goods of VANTINE'S goods, except $200 worth, was recovered. Meantime Detective HENDERSON had arrested JAMES CARROLL, of No. 236 West Twenty-ninth-street, who was found in the same neighborhood with a trunk in his possession. Both were arraigned before Justice KOCH, at Jefferson Market Police Court, and were remanded to the Station-house for further examination.

The Bankers' Bowling Scores—Almost a Row.

Both the journeyman and "boss" barbers' unions met at the Teutonic Assembly Rooms yesterday. It appeared that the employers recently appointed a committee to wait upon the journeymen, offering them a compromise in reference to their rule for the reduction of the hours of work, adding one hour to each on Saturday night's work and Sunday morning, which the journeymen rejected. This morning the journeymen appointed a committee to wait upon the employers, offering that one hour should be added either to Saturday's work or on Sunday's. This compromise was rejected by the employers. The Journeymen's Committee was recalled and informed of the action taken. Some sarcastic remarks made by the chairman of the Journeymen's Committee, Mr. HEUPEL, was taken as an insult, and a scene of confusion and excitement ensued, and a row was only prevented by the speedy withdrawal of the Journeymen. The confusion and excitement at the journeymen's meeting was not less when the Committee returned, reporting the treatment they had received at the hands of the employers, which was denounced as brutal, and a resolution was passed amid great excitement, declaring that they will remain firm in their struggle against

SABBATH-BREAKING.

Quarrels and Shooting Affrays Among the Roughs.

The Swamp and Shady Side Gangs at Open Warfare—A Battle in the City Hall Park—Three Persons Shot.

Yesterday afternoon, as MICHAEL HAYES, JAMES DRISCO, and several other members of a Fourth Ward gang of rowdies, were sitting on the steps near the Hall of Records, a member of the "Swamp Gang" came up, and, cursed by a beatink received on Saturday at their hands, pitched into them with a view of avenging the injuries suffered at their hands. As they approached DRISCO threatened to shoot any one who laid hands on him. JAMES HUGHES immediately grappled with him and attempted to wrench away the pistol. A struggle ensued, and some one fired three shots, one of which took effect in DRISCO'S back, inflicting a dangerous wound, another penetrated the upper arm of WILLIAM MCCAFFREY, inflicting a slight wound. The third shot struck JAMES DAWSON, an old man, who was sitting on one of the benches in the Park, in the calf of the leg, inflicting a severe wound. Officer O'SULLIVAN, of the Fourth Precinct, attempted to arrest DRISCO, who threatened to shoot him. The officer drew a revolver, and took him into custody. The person who it is supposed fired the shots ran away, and succeeded in making his escape; but Dr. Bauge, of Park Hospital, gave a full description of him to the Police. The latter believe the man to be MICHAEL HAYES, of Fourth Ward notoriety. The wounded men were taken into Park Hospital, and their wounds dressed by Drs. AMADILE and BRUCE. MCCAFFREY and DUFFEY were able to walk to Oak-street Station-house, where a charge was preferred against DRISCO, who was locked up. DRISCO denied having anything to do with the shooting, although two barrels of his revolver were found empty. He claims that he drew his revolver in self-defense, and said, he was in danger of his life from the gang. He also said he did not see the man fire the shots which took effect upon the members of the gang and Mr. DAWSON, of Park-row.

DORA COHEN, of No. 172 Division-street, was kicked and brutally beaten on Saturday evening by CHARLES WILLIAMSON, who was arrested, and on being arraigned at Essex Market yesterday, was held to await the result of the woman's injuries.

During an affray in a bar-room at the dock of Whitehall-street, yesterday morning, JAMES HERNING, of No. 691 Fifth-avenue, Brooklyn, was struck on the head with a pitcher, and severely injured, by an unknown man.

GEORGE O'BRIEN, of No. 173 Monroe-street, was severely stabbed over the right eye, during a fight with an unknown man, at the corner of Monroe and Montgomery streets, yesterday morning.

ANNIE FLAGG, living in the Bowery near Bayard-street, was found insensible at the corner of Broome and Mott streets, yesterday morning. She said her husband and kicked her until she was insensible and then jumped on a Third-avenue car and escaped.

During an affray in a basement eating saloon at the corner of Baxter-street and the Bowery, early yesterday morning, PATRICK LEE, of No. 258 Fifth-street, was struck on the head with a bottle and severely injured.

JOHN CASEY, a watchman on Pier No. 40 North River, was assaulted four times in the face and face, by THOMAS COLLINS, a laborer on the same pier, because CASEY would not allow COLLINS to go on the pier while smoking. CASEY, who is badly injured, was taken to the Park Hospital, and COLLINS was locked up in the Leonard-street Station-house.

JOHN COLLINS, of No. 1 East Fifteenth-street, and TIMOTHY BAINE, of East Fifteenth-street, quarreled at the corner of Fifteenth-street and Avenue A, yesterday, when BAINE drew a knife and stabbed MCGLINN in the left side, wounding him dangerously. BAINE escaped. MCGLINN was taken to Bellevue Hospital.

During a quarrel in front of his residence, last night, GEORGE DONALDSON, of No. 63 Leroy-street, was struck on the head and severely wounded by AUGUST OWENS, of No. 6 Jones-street, who was arrested.

SARAH DERRY, of No. 36 Vandam-st., quarreled with CELIA GIBSON at the latter's residence, No. 6 Vandam-st., last night, when CELIA struck her over the head with a weight, wounding her severely. CELIA was locked up.

Probable Murder in Brooklyn by the Wythe-Avenue Gang.

At 7½ o'clock yesterday morning, JOSEPH HOPKINS, Jr., aged eighteen years, residing at the corner of Bedford-avenue and River-street, went to a pump near by for water. He was met there by four young men, who seemed to be to some extent under the influence of liquor. The latter became very insulting to young HOPKINS, and threatened to knock his head off. Mr. JOSEPH HOPKINS, the boy's father, came out to his son's assistance, when one of the ruffians hit him over the left eye with a stone, inflicting a very dangerous wound, and producing concussion of the brain, which, in the opinion of his attending physicians, will prove fatal. Two officers of the Fifth Precinct, accompanied by young HOPKINS, went immediately in quest of the assailants, and succeeded in arresting JOHN DUNN and JOHN BURNHEAD. HOPKINS identified SHERIDAN as the one who threw the stone at his father. The prisoners belong to a pestiferous clan known as the Wythe-avenue gang.

Brooklyn Disturbances.

Shortly after 12 o'clock, Saturday night, an affray took place at WM. WORDEN'S liquor-shop, No. 80 Fulton-street, during which some unknown person hurled a large glass tumbler, which struck an Italian, HERMAN FERRER, on the head, inflicting a very ugly gash, but probably not fatal.

PATRICK GILLAS made an assault on ROBERT EAGLE with a slung-shot, in St. Mark's-place, yesterday afternoon, inflicting a dangerous wound on the head. GILLAS was arrested and locked up.

The Jersey City Ring—Petition for Pardon from Ex-Commissioner Hunsicker.

WILLIAM H. HUNSICKER, the Ex-Commissioner of Public Works, of Jersey City, is now ill in the New-Jersey State Prison, where he is treated as the other convicts are. He has addressed a long petition to Gov. PARKER and the Court of Pardons, now in session, claiming entire innocence of complicity in the reservoir swindle, that he saved the city $1,000 on the purchase, and that the Grand Jury misapprehended the facts. He says:

"When I purchased the property I supposed, and still believe, that I made a good purchase, rating the property at an average below its real value, and at less than the city could have procured it in any other way. When the purchase was completed and the title came to be taken, I learned for the first time that VEREELAND was the real owner of considerable portions of the property, but as the price was low, and I did not think it my duty to inquire who the owners might be, I raised no objection. I did not know at that moment at what exact price VEREELAND had bought or bargained for, or how much he was making, but it was apparent to me that he must have used considerable portions of the money which he had borrowed from me for the purchase of this property for the owners. I did not know at the time he borrowed, that the money was to be used for this purpose; but I was glad to loan him at the rate of interest he was to pay—one per cent. per month. Most of these funds were brought out on the trial, and the only way in which it was shown or claimed that I was interested was the change the loans to VEREELAND. Conscious of my innocence and being certain that my innocence would be made apparent by the facts, I took no action myself, but left the case in the hands of the counsel of the Board of Public Works, to employ such additional counsel as he might see fit. I did not, like a criminal, go out of my way to engage widely known or criminal counsel."

A Queer Wine Cellar.

Right opposite to Mount Morris Park, on its Madison-avenue side, and between One Hundred and Twenty-first and One Hundred and Twenty-third streets, is the Tunnel Wine-cellar, kept by LOUIS BROSI. On each side of the entrance are sheds for carriages which on Sunday evenings are here in great numbers. The saloon is a plain wooden structure, tolerably large and commodious, affording accommodation for nearly a hundred guests, of whom one-half are ladies. At the end of this room is a yawning gulf, circular in form, evidently hollowed by machinery out of the solid granite rock. It is about eighteen feet in diameter, and 30 feet back for a depth of forty-six feet. This place was begun in 1864 as an experiment by the firm that contracted to do the Hoosac tunneling in Massachusetts. In 1869 an enterprising Teuton saw the great hole, which was then a sort of play-house for the children of the squatters in the neighborhood. He thought it would make an admirable wine-cellar and he resolved to lease it. He had very little money; was he was enterprising and economical. The owner of the land leased the place to him for a song. He could do nothing with it himself without going to a great expense to get rid of the huge mass of granite that

THE FRENCH MURDER.

Details of an American Tragedy—A Singular Case.

Paris (June 10) Correspondence of the London Times.

While Paris has been taken up by the Dubourg tragedy, Amiens and its neighborhood have been thrown into commotion by a crime scarcely less horrible and more interesting, so far as regards the extraordinary mass of circumstantial evidence by which it has been sought to convict the perpetrator. As the trial has not concluded, and the Law of Evidence has not yet been published, but it have been favored with a private account of it, and it seems even more strange than the Dubourg affair. A murder, mystery and, moreover, a murder by the mysterious agency of Secret Poison, then a story of real life. The victim is a young man, who has published the employers at Whose table he fed every day and with whom he had outwardly lived on terms of perfect good will and amity, not to mention any fancied slight, nor under any momentary impulse of passion or drink, but in a sober, business-like, almost top-stable way, simply and solely to get possession of the private hoard which he knew them to have laid by. The frequency of these cold-blooded, calculated assassinations, the fearful extent to which the servant companion and trusted servant of his victim, and his only motive avarice, is one of the most deplorable characteristics of provincial France, and exists there to an extent unknown in other countries of anything like the same civilization. I am very far from wishing to insinuate that the crime I have on the whole, a very rare taste, naturally or artificially developed, for murder than other civilized races. But each nation has not only its peculiar vices, but even its peculiar forms of the same vice, just as it has its peculiar fashions of cutting the same coat, or going through the same dance; and without here venturing to assign any preliminary reason for the fashion of murder, let one's judgment should be warped by patriotic prejudice, I think one may safely say that for mere mercenary murder, between friend and friend, worked out as coolly as a sum in subtraction, or as one scares a shop, no country in the world is more for France. The Dubourg affair occurred in the northern near Amiens, was one of the very few persons likely to know exactly where his employers had hidden their money, and hence it was that suspicion first fell upon him. He lived and fed in their house, but did not sleep there, and, according to his account, on coming one morning, the house he knocked, but paid not get admittance. He went to a neighboring cabaret, and there waited till 7, when he returned to the house and knocked, but again with the same result. He went back to the cabaret, got a ladder and a long stick, and accompanied this time by the proprietor of the cabaret, forced an entrance into the house. With the stick he pushed back the bolt which fastened the gate of entry into the farm-yard, and then placed the ladder beneath a small window above the house door. Mounting the ladder, he raised a long sash, and, to his horror, saw the poor old man "stretched out on the floor, with two bullet-holes in his forehead, and a pistol by his side, point-blank!" The whole village was at once astir, but, as no unauthorized person dares in France to touch the body of a murdered man, nothing was done before the arrival of the police. When, at length, the door was burst open a horrid sight presented itself. The master and mistress of the house lay dead in a pool of blood, their heads frightfully battered and disfigured, while so close to the door as almost to prevent its opening was the body of their dog, also battered to death. Every search was made for some clue to the assassin, and it was soon found that some bricks in the floor had been removed, in order to get at the coin which, on the opinion of the Tribunal, the old couple had hidden there, and also that some bank notes had been taken out of the hollow bottom of a large, old-fashioned clock. The clock had stopped at seven minutes past 7, marking in all probability the moment at which it was disturbed by the hand of the murderer. On the floor were found, stained with blood, two cards, the Queen of Hearts and the Queen of Spades. CHAUCHE was arrested, but stoutly maintained his innocence, in the face of some very suspicious facts. None but one familiar with the habits of the household would have known where to look for the private hoard. Again, the dog, known to be a fierce watch-dog, had not been heard by the neighbors to bark, which he certainly would have done at the entrance of any stranger into the house. The ladder was put against the door where CHAUCHE had put it, and it was found that no one standing as he stood could possibly have seen the corpses inside the house. How, then, could he know that the crime had been committed? The old people were known to be in the habit of locking their door with the key, and yet to the public, who knew nothing of this, and have known this, had taken a stick, quite as a matter of course, to push back the bolt, as if this were the only obstacle. His house was searched, and a pack of cards found corresponding exactly to the two lying on the floor, except that six, not two, cards were wanting to the pack. It was ascertained on inquiry that the neck had been given CHAUCHE by his aunt, and on the police going to her, she at once, in all innocence, explained that by a mistake she had given her nephew twenty-nine cards instead of thirty-two. The still left a card to account for, and search was long made for it in vain; but at last it was found behind the table and the cabaret, at which CHAUCHE had twice gone. Here, then, was the pack complete. All these facts induced CHAUCHE to change his line of defense, and he then made the extraordinary statement that though he himself had not committed the murder, he knew who did and what about it. It had been committed by his wife's paramour, GUSTAVE BOITEL, who had threatened him with death if he told the truth. BOITEL was at once arrested, but swore—and his evidence was supported by two witnesses, his father and mother—that at the hour the clock stopped he was in his own house. Thereupon the wife took the stand, having an idea that, once released, he could never be arrested again, he very coolly confessed over his cups to a comrade that he was not in his house at he had sworn, but that he had really been present when CHAUCHE committed the murder. Though greatly alarmed and amazed at being a second time thrown back into his own house, soon after, CHAUCHE'S wife was induced to confess that her husband had thrown a hammer stained with blood into a pool close by. BOITEL, on being examined, confirmed her confession. The pool was dredged dry and the hammer found. The evidence against CHAUCHE then secured over whitening the silence of the dog, the pack of cards, the blood-stained hammer, his knowledge where the hoard was kept, his premature cry of horror at bodies that he could not see. But he has confronted it by a fairly plausible and perfectly consistent story. BOITEL, his wife's lover, knew through her as much as the husband did about the treasure, and was no stranger to the house. Nothing was more natural than that, being constantly at the house, he should have had some of CHAUCHE'S cards in his pocket, and as for the hammer it was in the first mood it and then threw it into the pond. The wife and paramour, according to CHAUCHE, are in a conspiracy to arrest the husband. As for his cry about the bodies, he can swear he believes he saw them, but as he knew what BOITEL had done, this may have been a not unnatural illusion of an excited and alarmed imagination. It must be added that CHAUCHE'S story is, if anything, more improbable by reason of his voluntary confession, when he believed himself safe, that he knew the real facts of the murder. The case is creating intense excitement all through the Department, and is looked forward to with the keenest interest, the more especially as it will be conducted by one of the ablest and most eloquent public prosecutors in France—M. LAPELLETIER.

THE SECOND EMPIRE.

Revelations of the Imperial Correspondence—The Heroes of the Sentinel Demonstration.

Paris (June 12) Correspondence of the London Daily News.

The greater part of the Imperial Correspondence, prepared for publication by a committee appointed by the Government of Sept. 4, was destroyed by the burning of the Tuileries. But some letters were preserved at the National Archives, and in some cases attested copies of destroyed documents have been forthcoming. A series has just been published which throws an extraordinary light indeed upon the men who were eminent Generals and under the Empire. In one of the published letters are strictures written from Gen. FELIX DOUAY, giving his opinion of the conduct of Marshal BAZAINE in Mexico. Of course, the statements of these letters are not judicial evidence, and must not be taken as conclusive. But the public has a right to read them and ponder the Empire. In one case, FELIX DOUAY, a gallant Alsatian, renowned in the army, is a man of the highest respectability. His letters, whether they be well founded or not, cannot prejudice the reputation of the murdered of Metz, for which BAZAINE stands upon his trial, because they relate only to the Mexican campaign in which Gen. DOUAY, Gaspe tells us, was subordinate to the chief of BAZAINE'S Headquarters. "I know," says DOUAY, "that BAZAINE hates me because I will neither be his dupe nor his accomplice." One of the letters says: "BAZAINE made a tool of the stupid MAXIMILIAN. He thought of nothing but his own ambitious plans. He surrounded himself with men devoid of capacity or of character. His plans were the fantasies of the smallest dreaming brains. Napoleon dragged from his arm-chair in Mexico the most exhaustive of the smallest dreaming brains. The man was and the result was, that Napoleon succeeded in the north in putting all hands which were in the fetch, and vice versa." When Gen. CASTELNAU was sent by the Emperor on a special mission to recommend MAXIMILIAN to abdicate, BAZAINE played a double game. He, himself the regulation to MAXIMILIAN, calling for his abdication, but privately recommending him to stand firm. A subsequent letter says: "BAZAINE'S name is well known. He has married a Mexican; he is drunk with ambition; and he seriously dreams of the fortune of a Bonaparte. In such a country as this and with his career, the scheme is not altogether chimerical." When it was decided that the French army was to come away from Mexico, BAZAINE, according to Gen. DOUAY, deferred the evacuation in order to realize money, and his agent was Col. BOYER, the same man, with the aid of Gen. BOYER, was sent by BAZAINE from Metz to Chasselmont. In this series of correspondence is found some letters addressed from Mexico to M. PIETRI, the Prefect of Police, by the Court favorite, the Marquis DE GALLIFET. This eminent Imperial General gave as bad, and worse, an account of the men under his command to Pietri as did the Prefect with whom he had to deal in marching through Germany. He said the army "took bread to the extent of mutiny; then they were an insubordinate, mutinous, drunken lot, and there were days when they were in the hands of the Mexicans." Gen. DOUAY, in one of his letters, says: "Bazaine wants to make a dictatorship of Marshals and Generals. He is the man who wrote to me that I shall be shot if I continue to oppose his plans." This is the very General who, as the beginning of the Chassepot war, shot at Malmedy, at his own private authority, without any court-martial, two Communists taken in battle, but who had stayed outside their lines. This Marquis wrote from Mexico the following jovial letter to a friend in Paris: "Get me a place at the Variétés for 'La Belle Hélène' on May 1, 1867, and tell H. I. H., the Imperial Prince, that next year we will celebrate the anniversary of his birthday by an easy victory over the Prussians." Such were the generals of the Empire. Can Prussia be very proud of her victory?

AUSTRIA AND GERMANY.

Significance of the Approaching Visit of the Emperor Francis Joseph to Berlin.

On June 15, the Vienna correspondent of the Eastern Budget writes to that journal:

"The intelligence has been circulated here that the Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH will pay a visit to Berlin in the Autumn, to return the visit of the German Emperor last year at Ischl. This news is correct in so far that the Emperor has notified his intention to pay the visit in question, but no decision has yet been arrived at as to the time when the journey is to take place. Several papers attach a political importance to this incident, forgetting that such visits between the nearly-related Courts of Austria and Prussia were never interrupted, notwithstanding the war of 1866, and that on that occasion the King of Prussia after the interview at Gastein, and while the negotiations between Prussia and Italy were in full progress, visited Vienna. Herr VON BISMARCK obtaining the order of St. Stephen on that occasion. The policy of Prussia was one of interest, and that of Austria becomes one of interest. Austria's neutral attitude in the Roman question plainly shows that she now recognizes neither ecclesiastical nor legitimist ideas as the principles of her policy. She seeks to remain on as peaceful and friendly terms with her neighbors as possible, especially as she has never, in the whole course of her existence as an Empire, pursued a negative policy. This negative policy, inaugurated by Count BEUST, has been wonderfully continued by his successor, Count ANDRASSY, who has acted in complete accordance with the declaration made by him on the subject when he assumed office. The division of the Empire into two independent, only nominally personal bodies forbids the maintenance of any but pacific policy, for otherwise the balance between the halves of the Empire, which was established with so much difficulty, would be disturbed. Western Austria, especially, being burdened with ten-thirteenths of the State debt and every other sign of a flourishing condition, Hungary—suffering, moreover, from the disastrous taxes of a heavy floating debt—has a special interest in applying all her attention and strength solely to the internal financial and agricultural development of her affairs. Only the most pressing necessity—the protection of her vital interests—would induce Austria to abandon the most strictly defensive attitude."

THE COTTON CROP.

Cheering Reports from Tennessee, North Georgia and North Alabama.

From the Nashville Banner, June 27.

As the promise of the growing cotton crop is a matter of great interest to the planters throughout the entire country, and to those whose business has to do with the staple, as well as to all classes of the Southern people, we have taken pains to get accurate information concerning the crop in Tennessee. Though Tennessee is not strictly one of the cotton-growing States, her yield is of considerable importance in the estimate of the general production in the United States.

To begin with the western division of the State, Shelby, Fayette, Hardeman, Tipton and Lauderdale are the counties in which the cotton-growing crop, and the percentage of acreage is at least an eighth greater than that of last year. The same favorable account comes from that entire section.

In Weakley County the stalk is in a healthy condition, and there is an estimated increase in acreage of fifteen per cent. In Obion the crop is never better, and the same account comes from Carroll and Benton as to the condition of the crop, and there is perhaps about the same increase of the amount planted. In Haywood, one of the most fertile counties in the State, and a great cotton-yielding county, the prospect is excellent, and the acreage has been increased, as compared with last year, about fifteen per cent. Gibson makes a fine showing, and, to sum up the prospect of West Tennessee, the general increase in the acreage planted this year will put down as not less than fifteen per cent., while the condition of the growing plant is everything that it could be desired.

In surveying the crop of Middle Tennessee, pretty much the same encouraging features are met with. Williamson has increased the acreage, and promises an abundant yield. Some of the farmers in that county are slightly in the grass, but not to a very damaging extent. Maury, too, has made a great little crop. Coffee, Franklin, and Marshall, in this section, but taking the county-line large, there is a fine crop growing. The estimated increase in the number of acres planted in Williamson, Maury and Marshall, is very nearly twenty-five per cent. Giles has a slightly increased acreage, though a large crop was planted last year. In Giles, Lincoln, Franklin, as well as from Wayne, Lawrence, Lewis, Maury, and the counties of the Upper Cumberland, the accounts are flattering to the farmer. Rutherford has increased its acreage, and thus far promises an increase in yield above that of last year. In portions of Lincoln they were needing rain somewhat until a short time since, but the heavy showers have favored with a good stand, and the crop is clean and growing well.

The labor supply has been regular and reliable for the most part, so far as we can learn, over the entire State. It may safely be said that, taking the average of the entire State, the increase in the acreage of this year's cotton crop, as compared with that of last year, will not fall short of 12 per cent., and our information would lead us to think that it is greater. In fact, in every county in the State reports that the prospect is unusually favorable.

As the trade of Nashville is largely interested in the cotton crop of North Georgia, and even more so in that of North
